WITNESSES HAVE BEEN EXCUSED

Lisbon, Oct. 3.—(Special.)—Lester Laughlin, of Wellsville, pleaded guilty in court to keeping a house of ill fame and was fined $100, and in consideration of a promise that the house would be abated and that he would move out of the building himself and would not engage in the liquor business in this county the jail or workhouse sentence attached to the penalty in such cases was suspended.

He also plead guilty to one indictment of selling liquor in a house of ill fame and was fined as fixed by the statute at $350 with costs in all of the cases, making a total of $515.69, which was paid by Laughlin.

The witnesses in the cases against Laughlin et al. have been excused.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

Columbiana County Was Once a Strong Democratic County, But Things Have Changed.

The political man of the Ohio State Journal has the following which will be news to many people in East Liverpool:

Six of the strongest Republican counties were once Democratic. Gibraltar, viz: Columbiana, Jefferson, Belmont, Stark, Pike and Vinton; the first two having been changed on the old slavery question, and the last four on the economic issues.

There are only two counties once Whig that are now in the Democratic column, Pickaway and Licking. Four of the big counties, Hamilton, Cuyahoga, Franklin and Montgomery, have boxed the compass and been on all sides, off and on, since their organization, but for several years have been largely Republican.

Just Issued a Very Interesting Circular.

EVERY VOTER SHOULD READ IT

A Number of Suggestions and Rules Are Made For the Judges of Election.

THINGS WELL WORTH KNOWING

Secretary of State Charles Kinney,
in his capacity as state supervisor of elections, has issued his annual instructions to voters and election officers as follows:

The election for 1900 occurs November 6. A person otherwise qualified to vote who becomes of age on the 7th (that is, whose birthday is the 7th) of November, is entitled to vote
at the election held on the 6th.

A person who came into the state
of Ohio with the intention of remaining and becoming a citizen, on the 6th day of November, 1899 (or prior), is entitled to vote on the 6th, provided
he is otherwise qualified.

A person who came into the county
not later than the 7th of October, 1900, is entitled to vote if otherwise
qualified.

An unmarried man who came into the township, or into a ward of municipality not later than October 17, 1900, if otherwise qualified, is entitled to vote.

The "head of a family" who came into the state not later than the 6th
of November, 1899, and into the county not later than October 7, 1900, is entitled to vote in the township, ward
or precinct in which his family resides,
whether he has been in such township,
ward, or precinct one or more days.

The words "head of a family" have been held to mean "he who provides for a family;" "the husband or father is ordinarily the head; but there may be a head where there is no marriage relation."

The place where a person sleeps is his "habitation." The place where he eats or has his washing done has nothing to do with his "habitation." His voting place is, therefore, in the ward
or precinct where he sleeps. Provided,
A married man (unless "where husband and wife have separated and live apart") is entitled to vote only
where his family permanently resides.

A married man separated from, and living apart from his wife, but who is living with and providing for his children, is the "head of a family,"
and is entitled to vote where his family resides.

A married man separated from, and living apart from his wife, and not the
"head of a family," is entitled to vote
only as an unmarried man.

If a married man moves into a county not later than October 7, and his wife, or if separated from his wife,
his family does not come into the county until the 8th of October, or thereafter, he is not entitled to vote.

If the wife of a married man, or if separated from his wife, the family
moves into the county in good faith,
not later than the 7th of October, he is entitled to vote, no matter if he himself did not come into the county
until after the 7th.

"That place shall be considered the residence of a person in which his habitation is fixed, and to which, whenever he is absent, he has the intention
of returning."

"A person shall not be considered to have lost his residence who leaves
his home, and goes into another state,
or county of this state, for temporar-

ry purposes merely, with the intention
of returning."

Whether a person has left his usual
voting place for temporary purposes
only is largely to be determined by the judges. The length of time of temporary absence is not to be considered as long as the right of franchise was not exercised by the voter somewhere else, and so long as it was his intention to return. A person in the government service at Washington or elsewhere, is "temporarily" absent and entitled to vote. Likewise a person absent in the service of the state of Ohio is "temporarily" absent, and entitled to vote at the place he resided before going into the state's service, whether his family is absent with him
or not.

For opinions as to rights of students and inmates of infirmaries, see Digest
of Ballot Laws.

Secretary of State.

WORDS OF COMFORT.

This Lady Speaks Her Mind Along the Line of Clean Journalism.

Editor News Review—Permit me to thank you in that you did not disap-point my expectations. And accept my hearty congratulations on your sturdy and manly stand for clean government and obedience to law. I will explain my reason for this introductory. In company with many other citizens of East Liverpool, I felt very keenly the disgrace put upon our city
by the brewery parade—the flaunting
in our faces of a feature which should hide itself away from the sight of all that is good and pure and clean and right.

I was in the company of a number of lady friends, when my attention was called to flaring advertisements of the brewery opening, appearing in certain journals published in this community,
and I made the remark that I was very thankful that there was one paper
in East Liverpool which would not thus disgrace itself, and that I felt morally certain that the advertisement designated would not appear in the News Review. Some of my lady
friends laughingly said:

"Don't be too sure; the love of money is a strong inducement to the average newspaper man."

I reiterated my statement and asserted that I would not believe that it would appear in the News Review until I would see it there. Well, Mr.
Editor, as my little son says, you could have "knocked me down with a feather" when I picked up your paper the same evening, saw a full-page display advertisement flash before my eyes and mentally said:

"Oh, how could he do it? How could he do it?"

And how my heart was gladdened
when a closer glance showed me the
advertisement of a legitimate business house in this city, and I actually cried in very joy.

Don't get weary in well doing. You have a great mass of men and women
who will stand by you and remain loyal to you and your paper as long as you stand by and advocate the right. And best of all, you have the assurance of one who never fails in taking care of his own; and when you advocate the right, from pure purpose,
He says:

"I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."

THE "IDLE" SOLDIERS.

These Are Bryan's Words, And Every Lover of Old Glory Should
Mark Them Well

William Jennings Bryan, chief agent
of the silver trust; colonel in the Home Guards, resigning when there were indications of active service;
backer of Aguinaldo; chief calamity
howler and breeder of strikes, suffering and starvation; advocate of
"empty dinner pails" and "shadow soup" houses, has seen fit to insult our brave boys who have done such glorious work in Cuba, the Philippines and China. We quote his language:

"This country has a hundred thousand soldiers walking around in idleness."—W. J. Bryan.

We clip the following from the Baltimore American, and present the same to Bryan for his consideration:
Walking around in idleness,

Wherever the flag's assailed;
Meeting the foe with an idle might
That never yet has failed.

Lawton, and Liscum, and Logan, too—
Capron—the list is long—

Went to their death in "idleness,"

And their "idleness" was wrong.

Grant and Sherman and Sheridan—

Why should we call the roll?

They idled away in the idle fight—

In fights that tired the soul.

"Walking around in idleness"—

Braving the leaden hail!

What of the glow of a nation's pride?

Is that but an idle tale?

"Walking around in idleness,"

Over the Peking road;

Scorched and worn by the galling sun,

Lugging an idle load.

Fighting with idle energy,

Cheering with idle breath—

Thinking, with idle love, of home,

And dying an idle death.

Private Smith, with an idle groan,

Gone to a home above;

And idle tears mark the idle woe

And idle mother's love.

"Walking around in idleness"—

Lawton and Liscum, too;

Legions more will come idly when

There are idle deeds to do.

—Baltimore American.

UNLAWFUL.

Fortune Tellers Are Prohibited from Doing Business in This State.

Not everyone is aware of the fact that during the last session of the general assembly, a law was passed
making fortune telling a penal offense.
The law in question was passed April 16, 1900.

In a very few sentences it sets forth that the fortune tellers, palm-lists, clairvoyants and astrologers should discontinue their work. The penalty attached is a fine of not more than $100, nor less than $25, or a sentence of three months or not less than 30 days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Women Who Work

Nine out of ten women are afflicted with some of the common ailments known as female diseases. Among women whose employment requires them to stand on their feet or sit in the same position all day, not one in twenty-five escape these troubles. The average feminine constitution cannot, unaided, withstand the strain to which steady, trying work subjects them. The organs of womanhood are so delicate and finely adjusted that the inevitable result of constant standing, lifting, stooping or straining is displacement of vital parts. The disorder is usually slight at first, but soon develops into irregular or painful menstruation, leucorrhoea or falling of the womb. Wine of Cardui is the right remedy for female weakness. As such it is offered to you. Wine of Cardui will not perform miracles, but it will, if taken as directed, insure painless and regular operation of the menstrual function. It will drive out every trace of leucorrhoea, and will so strengthen the ligaments that falling of the womb will be an impossibility. Don't you think it would pay you to try a medicine with such a record as that? You can get a $1 bottle of Wine of Cardui at any drug store and use it in the privacy of your home.

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE OHIO VOTER

Secretary of State Kinney Has Just Issued a Very Interesting Circular.

EVERY VOTER SHOULD READ IT

A Number of Suggestions and
Judges of Election.

THINGS WELL WORTH KNOWING

Secretary of State Charles Kinney, in his capacity as state supervisor of elections, has issued his annual instructions to voters and election officers as follows:

The election for 1900 occurs November 6. A person otherwise qualified to vote who becomes of age on the 7th (that is, whose birthday is the 7th) of November, is entitled to vote at the election held on the 6th.

A person who came into the state of Ohio with the intention of remaining and becoming a citizen, on the 6th day of November, 1899 (or prior), is entitled to vote on the 6th, provided he is otherwise qualified.

A person who came into the county not later than the 7th of October, 1900, is entitled to vote if otherwise qualified.

An unmarried man who came into the township, or into a ward of municipality not later than October 17, 1900, if otherwise qualified, is entitled to vote.

The "head of a family" who came into the state not later than the 6th of November, 1899, and into the county not later than October 7, 1900, is entitled to vote in the township, ward or precinct in which his family resides, whether he has been in such township, ward, or precinct one or more days.

The words "head of a family" have been held to mean "he who provides for a family;" "the husband or father is ordinarily the head; but there may be a head where there is no marriage relation."

The place where a person sleeps is his "habitation." The place where he eats or has his washing done has nothing to do with his "habitation." His voting place is, therefore, in the ward or precinct where he sleeps. Provided, A married man (unless "where husband and wife have separated and live apart") is entitled to vote only where his family permanently resides.

A married man separated from, and living apart from his wife, but who is living with and providing for his children, is the "head of a family," and is entitled to vote where his family resides.

A married man separated from, and living apart from his wife, and not the "head of a family," is entitled to vote only as an unmarried man.

If a married man moves into a county not later than October 7, and his wife, or if separated from his wife, his family does not come into the county until the 8th of October, or thereafter, he is not entitled to vote.

If the wife of a married man, or if separated from his wife, the family moves into the county in good faith, not later than the 7th of October, he is entitled to vote, no matter if he himself did not come into the county until after the 7th.

"That place shall be considered the residence of a person in which his habitation is fixed, and to which, whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning."

"A person shall not be considered to have lost his residence who leaves his home and goes into another state, or county of this state, for temporary purposes merely, with the intention of returning."

Whether a person has left his usual voting place for temporary purposes only is largely to be determined by the judges. The length of time of temporary absence is not to be considered as long as the right of franchise was not exercised by the voter somewhere else, and so long as it was his intention to return. A person in the government service at Washington or elsewhere, is "temporarily" absent and entitled to vote. Likewise a person absent in the service of the state of Ohio is "temporarily" absent, and entitled to vote at the place he resided before going into the state's service, whether his family is absent with him or not.

For opinions as to rights of students and inmates of infirmaries, see Digest of Ballot Laws.

CHARLES KINNEY,

WORDS OF COMFORT.

This Lady Speaks Her Mind Along the Line of Clean Journalism.

Editor News Review—Permit me to thank you in that you did not disappoint my expectations. And accept my hearty congratulations on your sturdy and manly stand for clean government and obedience to law. I will explain my reason for this introductory. In company with many other citizens of East Liverpool, I felt very keenly the disgrace put upon our city by the brewery parade—the flaunting in our faces of a feature which should hide itself away from the sight of all that is good and pure and clean and right.

I was in the company of a number of lady friends, when my attention was called to flaring advertisements of the brewery opening, appearing in certain journals published in this community, and I made the remark that I was very thankful that there was one paper in East Liverpool which would not thus disgrace itself, and that I felt morally certain that the advertisement designated would not appear in the News Review. Some of my lady friends laughingly said:

"Don't be too sure; the love of money is a strong inducement to the average newspaper man."

I reiterated my statement and asserted that I would not believe that it would appear in the News Review until I would see it there. Well, Mr. Editor, as my little son says, you could have "knocked me down with a feather" when I picked up your paper the same evening, saw a full-page display advertisement flash before my eyes and mentally said:

"Oh, how could he do it? How could he do it?"

And how my heart was gladdened when a closer glance showed me the advertisement of a legitimate business house in this city, and I actually cried in very joy.

Don't get weary in well doing. You have a great mass of men and women who will stand by you and remain loyal to you and your paper as long as you stand by and advocate the right. And best of all, you have the assurance of one who never fails in taking care of his own; and when you advocate the right, from pure purpose, He says:

"I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."

CLEAN LIFE.

THE "IDLE" SOLDIERS.

Mark Them Well

William Jennings Bryan, chief agent of the silver trust; colonel in the Home Guards, resigning when there were indications of active service; backer of Aguinaldo; chief calamity howler and breeder of strikes, suffering and starvation; advocate of "empty dinner pails" and "shadow soup" houses, has seen fit to insult our brave boys who have done such glorious work in Cuba, the Philippines and China. We quote his language:

"This country has a hundred thousand soldiers walking around in idleness."—W. J. Bryan.

We clip the following from the Baltimore American, and present the same to Bryan for his consideration: Walking around in idleness,

Wherever the flag's assailed;
Meeting the foe with an idle might
That never yet has failed.

Lawton, and Liscum, and Logan, too—
Capron—the list is long—

Went to their death in "idleness,"
And their "idleness" was wrong.

Grant and Sherman and Sheridan—
Why should we call the roll?

They idled away in the idle fight—
In fights that tired the soul.

"Walking around in idleness"—
Braving the leaden hail!

What of the glow of a nation's pride?
Is that but an idle tale?

"Walking around in idleness,"
Over the Peking road;

Scorched and worn by the galling sun,
Lugging an idle load.

Fighting with idle energy,
Cheering with idle breath—

Thinking, with idle love, of home,
And dying an idle death.

Private Smith, with an idle groan,
Gone to a home above;

And idle tears mark the idle woe
And idle mother's love.

"Walking around in idleness"—
Lawton and Liscum, too;

Legions more will come idly when
There are idle deeds to do.

—Baltimore American.

UNLAWFUL.

Fortune Tellers Are Prohibited from Doing Business in This State.

Not everyone is aware of the fact that during the last session of the general assembly, a law was passed making fortune telling a penal offense. The law in question was passed April 16, 1900.

In a very few sentences it sets forth that the fortune tellers, palmists, clairvoyants and astrologers should discontinue their work. The penalty attached is a fine of not more than $100, nor less than $25, or a sentence of three months or not less than 30 days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

—Samuel C. Hanlon returned to Tiffin this morning. He had been attending the funeral of his brother, James Hanlon, at East Palestine, and stopped over for a visit with his parents in this city.

Women Who Work

Nine out of ten women are afflicted with some of the common ailments known as female diseases. Among women whose employment requires them to stand on their feet or sit in the same position all day, not one in twenty-five escape these troubles. The average feminine constitution cannot, unaided, withstand the strain to which steady, trying work subjects them. The organs of womanhood are so delicate and finely adjusted that the inevitable result of constant standing, lifting, stooping or straining is displacement of vital parts. The disorder is usually slight at first, but soon develops into irregular or painful menstruation, leucorrhœa or falling of the womb. Wine of Cardui is the right remedy for female weakness. As such it is offered to you. Wine of Cardui will not perform miracles, but it will, if taken as directed, insure painless and regular operation of the menstrual function. It will drive out every trace of leucorrhœa, and will so strengthen the ligaments that falling of the womb will be an impossibility. Don't you think it would pay you to try a medicine with such a record as that? You can get a $1 bottle of Wine of Cardui at any drug store and use it in the privacy of your home.

WINE OF CARDUI

Townsend, Ga., May 18, 1899.

I have been in bad health with falling of the womb, weak back, nervousness and heart palpitation. At monthly periods I would be in bed suffering great pain. I have been taking Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Draught, and they have brought me wonderful relief. I have no pain, and not stop work at the monthly period.

Charles Mack Was Very Much Intoxicated and Officers Morris and Dawson Got Him.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS WRIGHT

Got Into Trouble For Using Profane Language and It Cost Them $6.60 Each.

ONE MAN WILL CALL TONIGHT

Business at police court continues good and every day Mayor Davidson has a new batch of offenders before him and they all get their just deserts.

Charles Mack was very much intoxicated when Officers Dawson and Morris happened his way. The officers assisted Charles to take a jaunt down to the place where all drunks finally wind up. When he faced the mayor he was given a lecture on the evils of intemperance, and after putting up security he was permitted to go. He will call again this evening and his case will be finally disposed of.

Thomas Wright and Lizzie Wright, who reside in Jethro, evidently have not read the commandments, or if they have, they have failed to pay attention to them. The profanity that came from their lips was awful. Officer Morris heard it and not liking to hear such language he made complaint to the mayor. Thomas and Lizzie called on his honor last night and they were each assessed $2 and costs, amounting in all to $13.20. They gave him $5 on account and were permitted to go after putting up security for the balance.

Joe Snape, who is wanted for disorderly conduct, will call on the mayor this evening.

The street force is still at work and the members of the gang are well satisfied, as they get plenty to eat and don't have to work too hard. They say it is a change from their usual way of living, and there is not a resident in the city that will dispute their word.

WILDOVER ROOSEVELT

Great Welcome In Bryan's Home City.

BIG PARADE, CHEERING PEOPLE.

The Governor Then Addressed a Meeting—At Aurora, In Answer to an Auditor. He Said Chairman Jones Was a Head of Cotton Bale Trust.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 3.—Governor Roosevelt was accorded a magnificent demonstration by the citizens of Lincoln. Nothing equal to it has yet been seen during the progress of the governor's journey through the west. Along the line of march, from the station to Capital House square, the streets, windows and balconies were filled with cheering people. In many streets the crowds were so dense as to impede the passage of the carriages and the mounted escort.

Arriving at Capital House square Governor Roosevelt was conducted to a reviewing stand, before which the long procession passed in review, occupying more than an hour. There were many unique and amusing features in the parade.

First came about 40 young ladies of the city in uniforms of blue, occupying a place in the column of march. At long intervals came two other troops of ladies in uniform belonging to the Ida McKinley club. Some of the banners displayed were amusing and significant. The Union Veteran Republican league, containing some hundred and fifty members, was carrying a horseshoe for luck. They had a banner bearing this inscription:

"We helped Abraham Lincoln in 1860. We are helping McKinley now." After the procession had passed in review Governor Roosevelt was conducted to a speakers' stand, where he spoke for three-quarters of an hour, going over the same ground in his remarks as he has traveled over before upon the issues of expansion, militarism, imperialism and patriotism. His remarks were punctuated by frequent cheers. At the conclusion of his speech, on his way from the stand to his carriage, he was fairly mobbed by a wildly eager crowd who wished to shake his hand or to get a word or look of recognition. He reached his carriage somewhat battered in appearance, but in fine spirits on account of the fervor of the reception. The train then pulled out for Plattsmouth, where an evening meeting was held.

The evening meeting at Plattsmouth was also a great success in point of numbers and interest. This meeting closed the day's itinerary.

There was a large crowd at Grand Island to meet the arrival of the Roosevelt train and here the governor left the train and spoke from a stand a dozen blocks away in the center of the city. He prefaced his remarks by calling attention to the great prosperity of all classes now existing and asked his hearers to compare it with the economic conditions of four years ago and act accordingly. He appealed also to the young men who were casting their votes for the first or second time to cast them for the party which has always been working for the honor of the flag and the greatness of the nation.

While delivering his speech at Aurora, Governor Roosevelt was interrupted by a man who cried out: "What about the trusts?"

Governor Roosevelt—What trust do you mean?

Inquirer—Oh, the ice trust, beef trust, the oil trust and all of them.

Governor Roosevelt—Shall I tell you about Chairman Jones' cotton bale trust or Richard Croker's ice trust?

"He puts the question in good faith and I will try to answer it in good faith. The trusts at present have to be dealt with each state by itself. A denunciation of trusts is of no value when not connected with action. Democratic denunciation of trusts amount to nothing when Mr. Jones, chairman of the Democratic National committee is at the head of the cotton bale trust, and when Mr. Croker, the leader of the New York Democracy, has a large ownership in another. These facts convict those of insincerity and that is all there is about it.

"There was a chance to give the national government power to deal with trusts a while ago, when the Republican party in congress submitted a resolution for an amendment to the constitution in June, giving the national government power to deal with trusts.

"That measure was supported by every Republican but two in congress, and voted against by every Democrat but four in congress. That is what about the trusts and that is not talk, my friend, but deeds."

At York, an open air meeting was held of large proportions, where Governor Roosevelt made a 15-minute speech. He was followed in a short address by Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston.

CLAIMS OF REPUBLICANS.

National Committee Says There Are 266 Votes Sure For McKinley.

New York, Oct. 3.—In a statement issued from Republican national headquarters through Committeeman Manley, the national committee claims 266 votes certain in the electoral college for Mr. McKinley, 112 for Bryan and 54 were put down as in doubt. The states conceded to Bryan are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, the Carolinas, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

In the doubtful column is put Colorado, Idaho, Kentucky, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, Nebraska and Utah. Everything else is put down for McKinley, but Indiana, which with its 15 votes is admitted to be in doubt.

When shown this Republican claim Mr. Richardson, for the Democrats, characterized it as only "so much boasting." He added that the Democrats also had a poll, which was very different from the Republican one, but that it would not be made public.

INSANE GLASSWORKER'S DEED.

He Killed His Wife and Then Committed Suicide.

Pittsburg, Oct. 3.—Ferdinand Probst shot his wife and then himself, using a double-barreled shotgun loaded for weasel. The woman's jaw was blown away and she never moved after. To shoot himself Probst worked the trigger with his toe, the greater part of his head was blown away and he fell, a bloody heap, on the floor beside the bed on which his wife was lying. The couple's 3-year-old baby girl lay beside her mother in the bed and saw her father's deed. He was insane.

Akron Riot Indictments.

Akron, O., Oct. 3.—The special grand jury, which has been sitting for the last six weeks investigating the riot which took place in this city August 22, made a partial report to the court. This was for the purpose of excusing a juror, who was compelled to leave on business. A new juror was called and work was resumed with the prospect of making a final report soon. The findings thus far were not announced by the court, but it is said that 66 indictments have already been found.

Harrison to Speak or Write Letter.

New York, Oct. 3.—Senator Scott called on ex-President Harrison and said afterward that Mr. Harrison will remain here 10 or 11 days and will be able to speak, probably within that time. If he should not be able to deliver and address, said Senator Scott, he will write a letter giving his views and showing his position, and the letter will favor McKinley.

BIG PARADE, CHEERING PEOPLE.

The Governor Then Addressed a Meeting—At Aurora, In Answer to an Auditor, He Said Chairman Jones Was 1 Head of Cotton Bale Trust.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 3.—Governor Roosevelt was accorded a magnificent demonstration by the citizens of Lincoln. Nothing equal to it has yet been seen during the progress of the governor's journey through the west. Along the line of march, from the station to Capital House square, the streets, windows and balconies were filled with cheering people. In many streets the crowds were so dense as to impede the passage of the carriages and the mounted escort.

Arriving at Capital House square Governor Roosevelt was conducted to a reviewing stand, before which the long procession passed in review, occupying more than an hour. There were many unique and amusing features in the parade.

First came about 40 young ladies of the city in uniforms of blue, occupying a place in the column of march. At long intervals came two other troops of ladies in uniform belonging to the Ida McKinley club. Some of the banners displayed were amusing and significant. The Union Veteran Republican league, containing some hundred and fifty members, was carrying a horseshoe for luck. They had a banner bearing this inscription: "We helped Abraham Lincoln in 1860. We are helping McKinley now."

After the procession had passed in review Governor Roosevelt was conducted to a speakers' stand, where he spoke for three-quarters of an hour, going over the same ground in his remarks as he has traveled over before upon the issues of expansion, militarism, imperialism and patriotism. His remarks were punctuated by frequent cheers. At the conclusion of his speech, on his way from the stand to his carriage, he was fairly mobbed by a wildly eager crowd who wished to shake his hand or to get a word or look of recognition. He reached his carriage somewhat battered in appearance, but in fine spirits on account of the fervor of the reception. The train then pulled out for Plattsmouth, where an evening meeting was held.

There was a large crowd at Grand Island to meet the arrival of the Roosevelt train and here the governor left the train and spoke from a stand a dozen blocks away in the center of the city. He prefaced his remarks by calling attention to the great prosperity of all classes now existing and asked his hearers to compare it with the economic conditions of four years ago and act accordingly. He appealed also to the young men who were casting their votes for the first or second time to cast them for the party which has always been working for the honor of the flag and the greatness of the nation.

While delivering his speech at Aurora, Governor Roosevelt was interrupted by a man who cried out: "What about the trusts?"

Governor Roosevelt—What trust do you mean?

Inquirer—Oh, the ice trust, beef trust, the oil trust and all of them.

Governor Roosevelt—Shall I tell you about Chairman Jones' cotton bale trust or Richard Croker's ice trust?

Governor Roosevelt continued: "He puts the question in good faith and I will try to answer it in good faith. The trusts at present have to be dealt with each state by itself. A denunciation of trusts is of no value when not connected with action. Democratic denunciation of trusts amount to nothing when Mr. Jones, chairman of the Democratic National committee is at the head of the cotton bale trust, and when Mr. Croker, the leader of the New York Democracy, has a large ownership in another. These facts convict those of insincerity and that is all there is about it.

"There was a chance to give the national government power to deal with trusts a while ago, when the Republican party in congress submitted a resolution for an amendment to the constitution in June, giving the national government power to deal with trusts.

"That measure was supported by every Republican but two in congress, and voted against by every Democrat but four in congress. That is what about the trusts and that is not talk, my friend, but deeds."

At York, an open air meeting was held of large proportions, where Governor Roosevelt made a 15-minute speech. He was followed in a short address by Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston.

CLAIMS OF REPUBLICANS.

National Committee Says There Are 268 Votes Sure For McKinley.

New York, Oct. 3.—In a statement issued from Republican national headquarters through Committeeman Manley, the national committee claims 268 votes certain in the electoral college for Mr. McKinley, 112 for Bryan and 54 were put down as in doubt. The states conceded to Bryan are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, the Carolinas, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

In the doubtful column is put Colorado, Idaho, Kentucky, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, Nebraska and Utah. Everything else is put down for McKinley, but Indiana, which with its 15 votes is admitted to be in doubt.

When shown this Republican claim Mr. Richardson, for the Democrats, characterized it as only "so much boasting." He added that the Democrats also had a poll, which was very different from the Republican one, but that it would not be made public.

INSANE GLASSWORKER'S DEED.

He Killed His Wife and Then Committed Suicide.

Pittsburg, Oct. 3.—Ferdinand Probst shot his wife and then himself, using a double-barreled shotgun loaded for weasel. The woman's jaw was blown away and she never moved after. To shoot himself Probst worked the trigger with his toe, the greater part of his head was blown away and he fell, a bloody heap, on the floor beside the bed on which his wife was lying. The couple's 3-year-old baby girl lay beside her mother in the bed and saw her father's deed. He was insane.

Akron Riot Indictments.

Akron, O., Oct. 3.—The special grand jury, which has been sitting for the last six weeks investigating the riot which took place in this city August 22, made a partial report to the court. This was for the purpose of excusing a juror, who was compelled to leave on business. A new juror was called and work was resumed with the prospect of making a final report soon. The findings thus far were not announced by the court, but it is said that 66 indictments have already been found.

Harrison to Speak or Write Letter.

New York, Oct. 3.—Senator Scott called on ex-President Harrison and said afterward that Mr. Harrison will remain here 10 or 11 days and will be able to speak, probably within that time. If he should not be able to deliver and address, said Senator Scott, he will write a letter giving his views and showing his position, and the letter will favor McKinley.

POLICE BUSINESS CONTINUES GOOD

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS WRIGHT

Got Into Trouble For Using Profane Language and It Cost Them $6.60 Each.

ONE MAN WILL CALL TONIGHT

Business at police court continues good and every day Mayor Davidson has a new batch of offenders before him and they all get their just deserts.

Charles Mack was very much intoxicated when Officers Dawson and Morris happened his way. The officers assisted Charles to take a jaunt down to the place where all drunks finally wind up. When he faced the mayor he was given a lecture on the evils of intemperance, and after putting up security he was permitted to go. He will call again this evening and his case will be finally disposed of.

Thomas Wright and Lizzie Wright, who reside in Jethro, evidently have not read the commandments, or if they have, they have failed to pay attention to them. The profanity that came from their lips was awful. Officer Morris heard it and not liking to hear such language he made complaint to the mayor. Thomas and Lizzie called on his honor last night and they were each assessed $2 and costs, amounting in all to $13.20. They gave him $5 on account and were permitted to go after putting up security for the balance.

Joe Snape, who is wanted for disorderly conduct, will call on the mayor this evening.

The street force is still at work and the members of the gang are well satisfied, as they get plenty to eat and don't have to work too hard. They say it is a change from their usual way of living, and there is not a resident in the city that will dispute their word.

BRYAN ON GOLD STANDARD.

"If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing, or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."

This language was used by Hon.
William Jennings Bryan in a speech at Knoxville, Tenn., on September 16, 1896.

ENFORCE THE LAW.

Palmists, clairvoyants, fortune tellers and the like would better get out of Ohio at once. The law hits 'em hard.

PROFANITY.

Mayor Davidson evidently means business in his order against the use of profanity in public places. Hit 'em hard, mayor, and all good and true citizens will stand by you, and you will have the approval of your conscience.

LECTURE COURSE.

We congratulate the High School committee on the coming lecture course in their selection of first-class material. Our lecture lovers and admirers of first-class entertainments, along the educational line, will have a rich treat this season.

POSTAGE STAMPS.

The adhesive material of some of Uncle Sam's two-cent stamps don't fill the bill, by any manner of means, it being necessary, on many occasions, to use paste or mucilage in order to cause them to adhere to the envelope.
Uncle Samuel should shake somebody up, for turning out inferior material or workmanship.

RUFFIANISM.

Ruffianism and disorder seems to be the play made by the backers of William Jennings Bryan in the silver mining regions. It looks very much as if Billy J. Bryan is indeed the chief agent of the silver trust, and as if the main question of the nation is the advancement and enrichment of the silver mine owners, at the expense of all other men and all other industries.
The attacks on Teddy Roosevelt will make votes by the thousand for Mc-Kinley and the gallant Rough Rider.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

There are newspapers and newspapers. There be newspapers which rejoice over the announcement of much good being accomplished by and through the medium of churches and Sunday schools. And there be newspapers which seem to take fiendish delight in the publication of items which detract from the good accomplished by Sunday schools and churches, and take ghoulish pleasure in spreading the news that some minister of the gospel or some Sunday school teacher has fallen from grace and gone wrong. Which of these papers does a clean and good citizen desire to take into his family circle?

CIGARETTES.

Those who supply them to the youngsters are a little too mean to class with humanity. Some of the lawbreakers are liable to get into serious trouble. One little fellow has made a confession to a prominent educator as to the identity of the fellow who has been supplying the school boys with the nasty things. Give the fellow the limit. And interest yourselves in making the punishment still heavier. Let us have a law to punish the youngsters found smoking the noxious things, or a law forbidding their manufacture or sale. In the destruction of childhood and youth, they are second only to the infamous saloon and liquor traffic. Wipe both evils out.

TEACHERS.

Certain lady teachers have been hauling the proprietor of the News Review over the coals and literally flaying him alive, because he published the complaint of a mother respecting her little boy being refused a drink by one of the teachers at the Sixth street school. The lady teachers in question have demanded, on three separate occasions, that the proprietor should give the name of the lady complainant, and on three separate occasions has this demand been refused. Will the lady complainant be so kind as to come to our rescue by calling on Prof. Rayman and stating her case in full? She will

FALL SHOES

Our New Fall Shoes are the talk of the town. Hundreds of cases have arrived during the last two weeks, and we are justified in saying that we are now showing the most varied assortment of the newest styles of dependable good wearing shoes ever shown in East Liverpool.

Walk-Over Shoes,

For Men, the most popular Shoes in America—25 New Fall
Styles—Laced, Buttoned and Bluchers, Patent Calf, Patent Kid, Suede's Enamel, Vici Kid, Vici Calf, Box Calf and various kinds of Tans,

$3.50 and $4.00.

Ladies' Shoes, at $3.00 and $3.50.

20 New Styles—Equal to other stores $3.50 and $4.00
shoes—Light, medium and heavy soles, with extension edges.
Vici Kid, Patent Calf, Enamel Calf, Velour Calf and Patent
Kid at these prices.

Boys' Shoes. We are particularly proud of the Boys' Shoes we sell. Because we know they are the best looking, best fitting and best wearing Boys' Shoes in town. Boys' good shoes, solid soles, at $1.25 and $1.50. Boys' extra good shoes at $1.75 and $2. Young men's "Cadet" shoes at $2.50 and $3.00. The above are for sizes 2½ to 5½. Smaller sizes proportionately less.

BENDHEIM'S.

confer a great favor on the writer,
and at the same time possibly discover that the case in question is not so serious as she at first supposed.
The principal of the Sixth street school cannot believe that any teacher in her domain would be unnecessarily cruel
to a little child.

HIT 'EM GOOD.

The way of the transgressor is hard. The court reports from Lisbon
today demonstrate the fact that awakened justice is holding the reins
of government and administering law
on the principle of the greater good to the greater mass. Public sentiment has become fully aroused, and public sentiment is a powerful lever.
Evil has become rampant and bold,
absolutely shameless in its actions,
and it became an actual necessity to call the perpetrators of evil and illegal practices to a stern account. All good and true and law-abiding citizens will say amen, and will back up the prosecuting attorney and the court in
the good work being done.

THE WHOLE TICKET.

Don't be satisfied with simply the election of McKinley and Roosevelt.
We want the whole ticket, both houses, everything in sight. We want
no disturbing elements or influences
in Washington city. We want a full and free swing, as we desire to show
the workingmen and toilers of the nation how to run a model government, on the principal of the greatest good
to the greatest mass. The Republican party has accomplished much along this line during the past four years;
but there is still much ground to cover; and to cover it fully, we want that there shall be no hindrances in our way. Vote the whole ticket, and wrestle with your neighbor along the same line of thought. We want every lover of prosperity to vote the Republican ticket. Don't let wind or weather, snow, storm or sleet keep you away from the polls. The grand old Buckeye state should roll up the greatest Republican majority ever

polled in her history.

own (with a slight difference in spelling) that the purchaser may be led to believe that he is purchasing a genuine "Sohmer Piano."
We deem it our duty to those who have been favorably impressed with the fine quality and high reputation of the "Sohmer Piano," to warn them against the possibility of an imposition by unscrupulous dealers or agents. Every genuine

FALL SHOES

Our New Fall Shoes are the talk of the town. Hundreds of cases have arrived during the last two weeks, and we are justified in saying that we are now showing the most varied assortment of the newest styles of dependable good wearing shoes ever shown in

Walk-Over Shoes,

For Men, the most popular Shoes in America—25 New Fall
Styles—Laced, Buttoned and Bluchers, Patent Calf, Patent Kid, Sueur's Enamel, Vici Kid, Vici Calf, Box Calf and various kinds of Tans,

$3.50 and $4.00.

Ladies' Shoes, at $3.00 and $3.50.

20 New Styles—Equal to other stores $3.50 and $4.00
shoes—Light, medium and heavy soles, with extension edges.
Vici Kid, Patent Calf, Enamel Calf, Velour Calf and Patent
Kid at these prices.

Boys' Shoes. We are particularly proud of the Boys' Shoes we sell. Because we know they are the best looking,
best fitting and best wearing Boys' Shoes in town. Boys' good shoes, solid soles, at $1.25 and $1.50. Boys' extra good shoes at $1.75 and $2. Young men's "Cadet" shoes

BENDHEIM'S.

confer a great favor on the writer,
and at the same time possibly discover that the case in question is not
so serious as she at first supposed.
The principal of the Sixth street school
cannot believe that any teacher in her domain would be unnecessarily cruel
to a little child.

HIT 'EM GOOD.

The way of the transgressor is hard. The court reports from Lisbon
today demonstrate the fact that awakened justice is holding the reins
of government and administering law
on the principle of the greater good
to the greater mass. Public sentiment has become fully aroused, and
public sentiment is a powerful lever.
Evil has become rampant and bold,
absolutely shameless in its actions,
and it became an actual necessity to
call the perpetrators of evil and illegal practices to a stern account. All good and true and law-abiding citizens
will say amen, and will back up the prosecuting attorney and the court in

THE WHOLE TICKET.

Don't be satisfied with simply the election of McKinley and Roosevelt.
We want the whole ticket, both
houses, everything in sight. We want
no disturbing elements or influences
in Washington city. We want a full
and free swing, as we desire to show
the workingmen and toilers of the nation how to run a model government,
on the principal of the greatest good
to the greatest mass. The Republican party has accomplished much along
this line during the past four years;
but there is still much ground to cover; and to cover it fully, we want
that there shall be no hindrances in our way. Vote the whole ticket, and
wrestle with your neighbor along the same line of thought. We want every lover of prosperity to vote the Republican ticket. Don't let wind or weather, snow, storm or sleet keep you away from the polls. The grand old Buckeye state should roll up the

EAST END. FROM KENTUCKY.

Some People of East End Make Play Things Out of Revolvers And An- noy Residents.

A number of the residents have been informed of the penalty attached to offenses of this character, and it will likely go hard with them if they are caught.

OFFERS AN INCREASE.

The D., L. & W. Company Falls Into Line.

THE D. & H. COMPANY REFUSED.

So Did the Pennsylvania Coal Company. D., L. & W. Say Increase Will Apply to Employees, Returning to Work Tomorrow—Other Companies Offer Increase.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 3.—The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company posted the following notices:

"This company makes the following announcement to its mine employees: It will adjust its rate of wages so as to pay its mine employees on and after October 1 a net increase of 10 per cent on the wages heretofore received, and will take up as heretofore with its mine employees any grievances which they may have.

"Approved:
"E. E. Loomis, Supt.
"E. J. Evans, District Supt."

"The 10 per cent increase in wages will apply to all employees of this colliery returning to work Thursday, October 4, 1900. Contract miners' wages will be increased by reducing the price of powder to $1.50 per keg. This reduction to be applied in adjusting the miners increase of 10 per cent. Other employees will receive a straight increase of 10 per cent in their wages.

"Approved:
"E. E. Loomis, Supt.
"E. J. Evans, District Supt."

The Hillside Coal and Iron company and the Temple Iron company also posted notices offering a 10 per cent increase. These three companies operate 36 collieries. There are 98 collieries in the county. The Delaware and Hudson company, with 21 collieries and the Pennsylvania Coal company, with 27 collieries, joined with the individual operators in refusing to post notices.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company announces that the offer to take up any grievances its men may have is not to be construed to mean that it will enter a general arbitration. Each operator will deal with his own employees separately. It was asserted there was not the slightest probability of the miners of this region going back to work until they get the word from the headquarters of the United Mine Workers.

BIG PARADE OF MINERS.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 3.—The parade and massmeeting of the striking miners, held in this city today, was the greatest labor demonstration ever held in Northeastern Pennsylvania. The weather was favorable to a large turnout, the sun shining brightly all day; it was more like a day in June than October.

The parade was headed by President Mitchell and the officers of the national executive board. It required an hour and 20 minutes to pass a given point. It is estimated that there were 15,000 men and boys in line. The boys constituted the working force in the breakers. They were only a small part of the procession. The great bulk of the paraders were made up of stalwart men. The music was furnished by about 40 bands of music and drum corps.

There were many banners of various designs carried by the men. Among the most unique were thus:
"We want our dinner pails filled with substantial food, not coal barons' taffy."

"We are fighting a cause that is just and right."

"Stand by President Mitchell and the union."

"Our union must be recognized."

"We will no longer be slaves."

"2240 pounds for a ton."

"We want two weeks pay."

The breaker boys carried banners which read:

"We need schooling, but must work."

"Save us from the whims of the sheriff and deputies."

"Down with oppression. We will stand by Mitchell."

The parade passed over the principal streets of the city and thousands of people lined the sidewalks. Here and there an enthusiastic admirer of President Mitchell would break through the lines and insist on shaking hands with him. Some of the features of the big procession was a brass band from Naticoke, the members of which were dressed in overalls. They played excellent music. The Pittston locals had a float with four men representing coal barons. They were crossed accordingly and were busy drinking champagne. Directly following was a float with dust-begrimed miners dining on bread and water. A stretcher was carried containing a dummy, representing a miner who had just lost his life in the mines while in the discharge of his duty.

When President Mitchell reviewed the great army of marchers on the river common he seemed to be a very proud man. He was generously applauded by the marchers. The superintendents of the coal companies and their clerks viewed the parade from their office buildings. One coal man said it was a very creditable demonstration. One thing is certain, the big showing made was a revelation to many who had no idea that the miners were so thoroughly organized.

After the parade passed President Mitchell and his colleagues were driven to West Side park, where the big mass meeting was held. For several hours a crowd had been gathering there, and it was estimated that nearly 20,000 persons were massed in front of the stand when the labor president began to speak. The reception he received from the vast crowd was a most enthusiastic one. T. D. Nichols, president of District No. 1 (Lackawanna and Wyoming region), was the chairman of the meeting. After George Purcell, of Indiana, member of the national executive board, and the Rev. P. J. Dunn, of Wilkesbarre, had made short addresses, Mr. Mitchell was introduced.

The national president was followed by Fred Dlicher, of Ohio; Benjamin James, of Pennsylvania, both members of the executive board, and "Mother" Mary Jones. After the meeting President Mitchell was driven through cheering crowds to his hotel.

President Mitchell's address, as far as outlining any future move on the part of the labor leaders is concerned, was a disappointment. He intimated very strongly the night before that he would define the position of the union in the 10 per cent concession. His failure to do so has caused the impression to go out that he is still undecided what should be done and that he is probably waiting for local unions to take some kind of action first. On the other hand there are some people who are in close touch with the situation who believe Mr. Mitchell knows exactly what he is doing. They argue that his telling the men that they can settle the 10 per cent increase question by holding a convention was a broad hint to the local leaders to carry out the suggestion.

Mr. Mitchell had no news touching upon negotiations for settlement to give out. He said there was absolutely no change in the situation.

MUST RECOGNIZE UNION.

Wyoming Strikers Declare It Is Useless For Operators to Merely Increase Wages.

Wilkesbarre, Oct. 3.—The coal operators of Wyoming who posted notices at their collieries notifying their employees of a 10 per cent increase in wages, had no information from their men as to whether the offer would be accepted or not. They thought the strikers were too busy with the parade and massmeeting to take any action. The operators are in no hurry and will wait the pleasure of the strikers. The miners, however, have about made up their minds that they will not consider the offer. The increase, they say, is a mere trifle and not worthy of consideration.

The fact that the operators have made what appears to be a studied effort to ignore the miners' union is what galls the strikers most. They say it is useless to talk of a settlement unless the presidents of the coal companies make up their minds to recognize the union. One of the officers of the United Mine Workers' council of this district said:

"I do not see how an agreement can be reached so long as the union is left out of the negotiations. The operators might as well understand now as later on that the union has come to stay and that it will insist on its demands being granted."

TINPLATE SCALE SETTLED.

Reported That Employees Got Advance of 10 Per Cent.

New York, Oct. 3.—The conference between the officers of the American Tin Plate company and the delegates representing the Tin Workers' association of America, was continued. The wage question was settled, though on what basis was not officially announced, but it was reported that the employees had been granted an advance of 10 per cent.

After the conference President Powell, of the employees' association, said that though a full settlement had not been reached, he was almost assured that a satisfactory termination of the conference would result today. Vice President Arms, of the company, held the same opinion.

CREMATED BY A MOB.

Negro Burned at the Stake in Alabama.

VICTIM'S HUSBAND FIRED FAGOTS.

Wetumpka, Ala., Oct. 3.—Winfield Townsend, alias Floyd, a negro, was burned at the stake in the little town of Eclectic, about 15 miles from this place. The crime, with which he was charged, was an attempted assault upon Mrs. Lonnie Harrington, whose husband set fire to the brands which reduced Townsend's body to ashes. The negro, a nephew of the negro Floyd who was hung in the Wetumpka jail week before last for attempted assault, attempted to outrage Mrs. Harrington. Mr. Harrington was engaged at a cotton gin in Eclectic and lives about one mile out of town. The negro came to the house and told Mrs. Harrington that her husband had sent him to get 20 cents from her. She told him she had no change. Then the negro left, but returned in about 10 minutes. The woman's screams were heard by Bob Nichols, another negro, who was passing along the road at the time. He ran to the house in time to see the negro escape. As soon as Mrs. Harrington was brought back to consciousness Nichols gave the alarm.

The news spread rapidly. All the stores in Eclectic were closed, all the gins and saw mills shut down; the people left their wagons in the road and their plows in the field, and gathered for a pursuit of the negro. The crowd divided, some scouring the woods near the scene of the crime, and others went to the penitentiary for bloodhounds. The dogs were not brought to the scene until nearly dark. They were taken to where the negro's tracks disappeared and an exciting chase ensued. The dogs stopped finally at a tree in front of Odion's store, on the outskirts of the town. The crowd coming up soon discovered the negro sitting on a limb. He was brought down at once and taken to the scene of his crime. There he was confronted by his victim, who positively identified him. Word was sent to the other searching parties that the negro had been found and later there was a crowd of several hundred in the little village. The negro was then taken to the edge of the village and surrounded by the mob he shivered with fear. The preparations for death were quickly made. A rope was flung over the limb of a big oak and a number stood ready to lend a hand at the rope.

Then a halt was called and the manner of death discussed by the mob. To decide the matter a vote was taken and the balloting showed a majority of the crowd to favor death at the stake.

The stake was prepared and the negro was bound to it with chains. Pine knots were piled about him and the flames were fired by the husband of the negro's victim. As they leaped to the wretches flesh his wild cries upon God for mercy and help could be heard for miles. The crowd looked on, deaf to his cries, and in about an hour the negro was reduced to ashes.

Townsend, before being bound, confessed the crime and said he was also implicated with Alexander Floyd, who was hung a couple of weeks ago for an attempted assault on Miss Kate Pearson, in the attempt at that time. He said he and Floyd had planned for other crimes of like character, but that Floyd being hung put a stop to them.

Boston, Oct. 3.—Robert Treat Paine, Jr., was again nominated for governor at the state convention held in Faneuil hall. Other nominations were also made.

The platform adopted declares the dominant question to be the continuance of government by consent of the governed, declares the Porto Rican law is an outrage on the liberties of the people; calls for a free constitution for Cuba and in the Philippines; a speedy restoration of independence; opposes any alliance, open or secret, with any foreign nation, and also touches on state issues.

The construction and supreme control of the Nicaraguan canal by the United States government was urged.

The D., L. & W. Company Falls Into Line.

THE D. & H. COMPANY REFUSED.

So Did the Pennsylvania Coal Company. D., L. & W. Say Increase Will Apply to Employees, Returning to Work Tomorrow—Other Companies Offer Increase.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 3.—The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company posted the following notices:

"This company makes the following announcement to its mine employees: It will adjust its rate of wages so as to pay its mine employees on and after October 1 a net increase of 10 per cent on the wages heretofore received, and will take up as heretofore with its mine employees any grievances which they may have.

"Approved:

"E. E. Loomis, Supt.

"E. J. Evans, District Supt."

"The 10 per cent increase in wages will apply to all employees of this colliery returning to work Thursday, October 4, 1900. Contract miners' wages will be increased by reducing the price of powder to $1.50 per keg. This reduction to be applied in adjusting the miners' increase of 10 per cent. Other employees will receive a straight increase of 10 per cent in their wages.

"Approved:

"E. E. Loomis, Supt.

"E. J. Evans, District Supt."

The Hillside Coal and Iron company and the Temple Iron company also posted notices offering a 10 per cent increase. These three companies operate 36 collieries. There are 98 collieries in the county. The Delaware and Hudson company, with 21 collieries and the Pennsylvania Coal company, with 27 collieries, joined with the individual operators in refusing to post notices.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company announces that the offer to take up any grievances its men may have is not to be construed to mean that it will enter a general arbitration. Each operator will deal with his own employees separately.

It was asserted there was not the slightest probability of the miners of this region going back to work until they get the word from the headquarters of the United Mine Workers.

BIG PARADE OF MINERS.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 3.—The parade and massmeeting of the striking miners, held in this city today, was the greatest labor demonstration ever held in Northeastern Pennsylvania. The weather was favorable to a large turnout, the sun shining brightly all day; it was more like a day in June than October.

The parade was headed by President Mitchell and the officers of the national executive board. It required an hour and 20 minutes to pass a given point. It is estimated that there were 15,000 men and boys in line. The boys constituted the working force in the breakers. They were only a small part of the procession. The great bulk of the paraders were made up of stalwart men. The music was furnished by about 40 bands of music and drum corps.

There were many banners of various designs carried by the men. Among the most unique were thus:

"We want our dinner pails filled with substantial food, not coal barons' taffy."

"We are fighting a cause that is just and right."

"Stand by President Mitchell and the union."

"Our union must be recognized."

"We will no longer be slaves."

"2340 pounds for a ton."

"We want two weeks pay."

The breaker boys carried banners which read:

"We need schooling, but must work."

"Save us from the whims of the sheriff and deputies."

"Down with oppression. We will stand by Mitchell."

The parade passed over the principal streets of the city and thousands of people lined the sidewalks. Here and there an enthusiastic admirer of President Mitchell would break through the lines and insist on shaking hands with him. Some of the features of the big procession was a brass band from Nanticoke, the members of which were dressed in overalls. They played excellent music. The Pittston locals had a float with four men representing coal barons. They were dressed accordingly and were only drinking champagne. Directly following was a float with dust-begrimed miners dining on bread and water. A stretcher was carried containing a dummy, representing a miner who had just lost his life in the mines while in the discharge of his duty.

When President Mitchell reviewed the great army of marchers on the river common he seemed to be a very proud man. He was generously applauded by the marchers. The superintendents of the coal companies and their clerks viewed the parade from their office buildings. One coal man said it was a very creditable demonstration. One thing is certain, the big showing made was a revelation to many who had no idea that the miners were so thoroughly organized.

After the parade passed President Mitchell and his colleagues were driven to West Side park, where the big mass meeting was held. For several hours a crowd had been gathering there, and it was estimated that nearly 20,000 persons were massed in front of the stand when the labor president began to speak. The reception he received from the vast crowd was a most enthusiastic one. T. D. Nichols, president of District No. 1 (Lackawanna and Wyoming region), was the chairman of the meeting. After George Purcell, of Indiana, member of the national executive board, and the Rev. P. J. Dunn, of Wilkesbarre, had made short addresses, Mr. Mitchell was introduced.

The national president was followed by Fred Dilleher, of Ohio; Benjamin James, of Pennsylvania, both members of the executive board, and "Mother" Mary Jones. After the meeting President Mitchell was driven through cheering crowds to his hotel.

President Mitchell's address, as far as outlining any future move on the part of the labor leaders is concerned, was a disappointment. He intimated very strongly the night before that he would define the position of the union in the 10 per cent concession. His failure to do so has caused the impression to go out that he is still undecided what should be done and that he is probably waiting for local unions to take some kind of action first. On the other hand there are some people who are in close touch with the situation who believe Mr. Mitchell knows exactly what he is doing. They argue that his telling the men that they can settle the 10 per cent increase question by holding a convention was a broad hint to the local leaders to carry out the suggestion.

Mr. Mitchell had no news touching upon negotiations for settlement to give out. He said there was absolutely no change in the situation.

MUST RECOGNIZE UNION.

Wyoming Strikers Declare It Is Useless For Operators to Merely Increase Wages.

Wilkesbarre, Oct. 3.—The coal operators of Wyoming who posted notices at their collieries notifying their employees of a 10 per cent increase in wages, had no information from their men as to whether the offer would be accepted or not. They thought the strikers were too busy with the parade and massmeeting to take any action. The operators are in no hurry and will wait the pleasure of the strikers. The miners, however, have about made up their minds that they will not consider the offer. The increase, they say, is a mere trifle and not worthy of consideration.

The fact that the operators have made what appears to be a studied effort to ignore the miners' union is what galls the strikers most. They say it is useless to talk of a settlement unless the presidents of the coal companies make up their minds to recognize the union. One of the officers of the United Mine Workers' council of this district said:

"I do not see how an agreement can be reached so long as the union is left out of the negotiations. The operators might as well understand now as later on that the union has come to stay and that it will insist on its demands being granted."

TINPLATE SCALE SETTLED.

Reported That Employees Got Advance of 10 Per Cent.

New York, Oct. 3.—The conference between the officers of the American Tin Plate company and the delegates representing the Tin Workers' association of America, was continued. The wage question was settled, though on what basis was not officially announced, but it was reported that the employees had been granted an advance of 10 per cent.

After the conference President Powell, of the employees' association, said that though a full settlement had not been reached, he was almost assured that a satisfactory termination of the conference would result today. Vice President Arms, of the company, held the same opinion.

CREMATED BY A MOB.

Negro Burned at the Stake In Alabama.

VICTIM'S HUSBAND FIRED FAGOTS.

Wetumpka, Ala., Oct. 3.—Winfield Townsend, alias Floyd, a negro, was burned at the stake in the little town of Eclectic, about 15 miles from this place. The crime, with which he was charged, was an attempted assault upon Mrs. Lonnie Harrington, whose husband set fire to the brands which reduced Townsend's body to ashes. The negro, a nephew of the negro Floyd who was hung in the Wetumpka jail week before last for attempted assault, attempted to outrage Mrs. Harrington. Mr. Harrington was engaged at a cotton gin in Eclectic and lives about one mile out of town. The negro came to the house and told Mrs. Harrington that her husband had sent him to get 20 cents from her. She told him she had no change. Then the negro left, but returned in about 10 minutes. The woman's screams were heard by Bob Nichols, another negro, who was passing along the road at the time. He ran to the house in time to see the negro escape. As soon as Mrs. Harrington was brought back to consciousness Nichols gave the alarm.

The news spread rapidly. All the stores in Eclectic were closed, all the guns and saw mills shut down; the people left their wagons in the road and their plows in the field, and gathered for a pursuit of the negro. The crowd divided, some scouring the woods near the scene of the crime, and others went to the penitentiary for bloodhounds. The dogs were not brought to the scene until nearly dark. They were taken to where the negro's tracks disappeared and an exciting chase ensued. The dogs stopped finally at a tree in front of Odion's store, on the outskirts of the town. The crowd coming up soon discovered the negro sitting on a limb. He was brought down at once and taken to the scene of his crime. There he was confronted by his victim, who positively identified him. Word was sent to the other searching parties that the negro had been found and later there was a crowd of several hundred in the little village. The negro was then taken to the edge of the village and surrounded by the mob he shivered with fear. The preparations for death were quickly made. A rope was flung over the limb of a big oak and a number stood ready to lend a hand at the rope.

Then a halt was called and the manner of death discussed by the mob. To decide the matter a vote was taken and the balloting showed a majority of the crowd to favor death at the stake.

The stake was prepared and the negro was bound to it with chains. Pine knots were piled about him and the flames were fired by the husband of the negro's victim. As they leaped to the wretches flesh his wild cries upon God for mercy and help could be heard for miles. The crowd looked on, deaf to his cries, and in about an hour the negro was reduced to ashes.

Townsend, before being bound, confessed the crime and said he was also implicated with Alexander Floyd, who was hung a couple of weeks ago for an attempted assault on Miss Kate Pearson, in the attempt at that time. He said he and Floyd had planned for other crimes of like character, but that Floyd being hung put a stop to them.

PAINE NAMED FOR GOVERNOR.

Massachusetts Democrats Held Their Convention in Faneuil Hall, Boston.

Boston, Oct. 3.—Robert Treat Paine, Jr., was again nominated for governor at the state convention held in Faneuil hall. Other nominations were also made.

The platform adopted declares the dominant question to be the continuance of government by consent of the governed, declares the Porto Rican law is an outrage on the liberties of the people; calls for a free constitution for Cuba and in the Philippines, a speedy restoration of independence; opposes any alliance, open or secret, with any foreign nation, and also touches on state issues.

The construction and supreme control of the Nicaraguan canal by the United States government was urged.

PENSION QUESTION.

Facts Regarding the Records of the Two Parties.

REPUBLICANS THE FIRM FRIENDS

of the Soldier, His Widow and Orphan.
Cleveland's Malicious Policy on the Matter—What the Present Administration Has Done in This Regard.

"The organized pension grabbers have a great weight in politics, and they never fail to use it. Just let an executive officer try to execute the laws and hold down the pension frauds and a howl goes up from that class, many of whom are members of that treasury-fed, treasury-fattened organization called the Grand Army of the Republic. No sooner do the Grand Army posts have a meeting than these pension attorneys set up a howl against the offending officer and go to work to have him removed. Such has been the case with the present commissioner of pensions. So permeating and far-reaching is this baneful influence that Democrats in the north, in many instances, are as bad or worse than Republicans. It seems that in that section of the country where the pension crop exceeds almost any other source of money supply, Republicans, Democrats and Populists fall over each other in their efforts to execute the will and wish of this army of pensioners."

These are the words spoken in congress February 14, 1900, by Thelus Willrette Sims, of Linden, Tennessee, representing the Eighth District of that Democratic stronghold. They boil down into a paragraph the real, inner feeling of the Democracy of the dominant and controlling section of the Democratic party upon the question of pensions for the Union soldiers who whipped them. The intense hostility and ugly temper manifested by this Tennessee Democratic congressman, nevertheless touch a certain vein of truth. Singularly enough, the one speech in the house at the late session that fully warranted all that Mr. Sims said and insinuated about "these same pension attorneys" that "set up a howl," came from a Democrat, Hon. William Sulzer, of New York, the Tammany pet who dreamed that he was to be on the ticket for vice president with Bryan. Thus he is no insignificant figure in Democratic circles. Sulzer's speech, dated June 5, 1900, is just as much an insult to every decent, honest soldier, or widow or orphan of a soldier, as anything Sims said. Sims talks right out about the "organized pension grabbers," but recognizes that they are not so much soldiers as those who use the name of the soldiers for their own profit, while Sulzer's entire speech, so far as it relates to pensions, proceeds absolutely upon the assumption that every soldier is indeed a "pension grabber," and has no motive in any claim he may make upon the government for his services except to get the most that he can, honestly or dishonestly. More than eight of the broad pages of the Congressional Record, in its very finest type, are filled by Sulzer with what he calls "some data regarding pension matters," that proves to be, not his words in the last, but simply a rehash of pension attorney attacks upon the pension bureau for months before the speech was made. These attacks, kept up incessantly in a newspaper operating nominally for the benefit of the old soldiers and having some circulation among them for that reason, was used by Sulzer as about all he has to say on the pension question. The meanest of all the mean things in these systematic attacks that betray in every line their writer's wrath because the pension bureau has not bent the knee to his demands, have been gathered by the Democratic committees into leaflets and sown broadcast among the veteran soldiers of Ohio upon the degrading supposition that these brave and true men can be seduced from the party that has alone legislated in their behalf, and betrayed into the support of the party that has alone worked against them in congress and at the White house. Sulzer seems to suppose that no motive

but a mercenary one exists among the American soldiers, and "any old lie" that touches the pocket-nerve, appears to him sufficient for circulation to deceive our veterans.

A few days after Sulzer spoke, Hon. Charles Dick, of Ohio, gave the absolute facts from the records as to the immense services to the soldiers by the Republicans in congress, and in the executive departments, throughout the entire period since the war, and took up item by item every accusation made by Sulzer's pension agency organ. Twenty-six of these false and unjust charges are clearly stated and specifically answered. Every soldier should read this speech of General Dick, and mark the contrast between its fair, strong and courteous replies, and the slanderous accusations. It is impossible in our brief space to touch upon these individually, but the fourteenth count is a fair illustration. Sulzer attacks Commissioner Evans for rejecting claimants over 62 years of age, as if there were some law for their particular benefit. But there is no such statute and, as General Dick says, "it is manifestly absurd to charge the commissioner with the violation of a law which has no existence, and this charge is a fair specimen of the recklessness which was obtained in formulating the different counts in this indictment."

What do the soldiers say to this Sulzer insinuation that no motive but a mercenary one inspires them in their pension applications, and that they care not what laws are broken or what injustice is done, so long as they get a grab from the treasury, right or wrong? Is it not such things as Sulzer says that alone give occasion for such gratuitous and unmitigated insults as Sims spoke? Both are Democrats, both think alike at heart about the pension matter, and their party thinks with them. The proof of it was in the Democratic conduct when it had the power under President Cleveland, and in the fact that six out of every ten Democrats in congress in the votes upon the 14 great pension measures since the war, have voted against them. Nothing will so surely hasten the break-down of the entire pension system to the positive harm of all the thousands justly entitled to government aid, as such speeches as Sulzer's; for every Democratic vote since the Democratic circulation of the Sulzer speeches ratifies what he has said, and hastens the day when may be realized these words with which his brother Democrat, Sims, of Tennessee, equally a Bryan supporter, closed his speech:

"Mr. Chairman if the southern members of this house, who are not entirely dependent on the pensioners' vote for a seat in this house, do not take hold of this evil and by determined and long-continued effort root it out, no mortal can predict to what ruinous lengths it will go. Speaking for myself, I most solemnly declare that as long as I am honored with a seat in this body I shall never cease to make the best efforts of which, in my weakness, I am capable to root out and utterly destroy this monster of evil, and I call on all my colleagues of the south who have the courage of their convictions to stand by me in this fight."

If there were no trusts until McKinley came in, how was it that the Democratic congress 12 years ago (1888) found so many of them, according to the report of its committee on the subject? At that time, the President and House were Democratic and the Senate short of it by only two votes.

Bryan for President brings a Bryan congress, and starts the silver smas at 16 to 1. What will the railroads then about their interest due in gold, with two dollars of interest to be earned for every dollar of interest to be paid? Will that fact affect and cut the wages of railroad workers?

Not a word yet from Bryan or his Chairman Jones, about the latter's cotton bale trust. There is not even an intimation of the surrender of a penny of the profits that have made Jones a millionaire in ten years.

It is the humble man that advances. He recognizes his imperfections and strives to improve. His progress is the result of his knowledge of self. The vain, conceited, arrogant man stands still.

IMPERIALISM

NOW DEFINED BY PERRY BELMONT FOR DEMOCRATS.

It is a Judicial Question, Not One to Be Settled by the People at the Ballot-Box—Hence It Is Not Properly an Issue in the Pending Campaign.

Ever since the present campaign began, there has been a difficulty in understanding exactly what Mr. Bryan means by the term "imperialism." The first definition which has been attempted is that of Hon. Perry Belmont of New York, in a letter addressed to Hon. John T. McGraw, who is the Democratic national committeeman of West Virginia. Mr. Belmont says:

"The Republican idea, the imperialistic idea, is that all the millions of people in our territories and islands can, in time of peace, be governed by congress according to its fancy, unrestrained by the constitution and the judicial powers. * * * Such imperialism was by the Kansas City convention made the supreme issue."

Here we have it. Imperialism, in the Democratic mind, is not the government of the Philippines, but the government of the Philippines "unrestrained by the constitution." In reply to this it is but necessary to mention three pertinent facts:

First—The Republican policy is in accordance with every legislative act applied to newly acquired territory since the United States began its tremendous march of expansion.

Second—The United States supreme court backs this up with exhaustive and overwhelming authority.

Third—The issue of imperialism, as defined by Mr. Belmont above, is again before the national courts.

If the Republican policy is unconstitutional, therefore, it will be so decided, and reversed. If the courts shall hold it to be correct, then the Democrats will be constitutionally bound to abandon their present position, drop their imperialistic argument, and obey the court.

Hence, it follows that imperialism is a bogus issue, because it is not one that can be settled by the people at the ballot box. It is a question for the judicial branch of the government, not for the legislative or the executive. The election of Mr. Bryan would do nothing whatever to influence the decision that the courts will give. Imperialism is, therefore, no more an issue before the people than is any other judicial question now pending in the supreme court of the United States.

But let us remark that Bryanism, while it is not before the supreme court, is a menace and a threat against the supreme court and the powers conferred upon it by the constitution of the United States.

OUR GOOD TITLE.

How Would Bryan Vitate Our Rights to the Philippines?

What is there back of Bryan's repeated remark that the United States has not a good title to the Philippines? Does it mean that "if President" he will have his attorney general give an opinion that will take the American American troops away and surrender the islands? was not this flag-furling foreshadowed weeks ago by Cotton Baler Jones, chairman of the Democratic National committee, when he was asked whether Mr. Bryan, in the event of his election, would order American troops to leave the Philippines? His answer was: "We sent the troops there in ships. I guess we can bring them away in ships. We had no more right to send soldiers there than we have to send them to fight against any government in Europe. Congress has never authorized the prosecution of war against the Philippines, and without action of Congress what right has anybody to carry on such a war?"

INSULT TO SOLDIERS.

Are our American soldiers mere mercenaries, as Bryan insinuates that they are? Whether in the regulars or volunteers, the boys in blue of today are just as patriotic as their fathers' of 30 years ago, although not so numerous by 1 in 20. At Milwaukee, Bryan, talking to the Germans, as he supposed (but the Germans were too patriotic to listen to him), got off the gag he has repeated so often that the Republican party "would take their sons away from them for service in the Philippines" and appease them "by leaving a gold dollar in their pocket." If this is not a double insult to the soldiers and their fathers alike, then the English language has lots its meaning.

OHIO EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Said a fellow to Charley Stacy the other day: "Say, Charley, how can I manage to get a man to cut corn fodder for me?" Quick as a wink, Charley said, "Vote for Bryan, and there will be lots of fellows looking for just that kind of a job." Mr. Stacy is a Republican, while his questioner is a 16 to 1 Democrat.—Bowling Green Tribune.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Surles have returned from Anderson, Ind., and will resume housekeeping on Robinson street. Mr. Surles had been employed by a manufacturing concern of that city, and when leaving the owners said to him: "Remember, if McKinley is elected we will want you back here to build two more kilns."—East Liverpool News-Review.

If there is an individual wide awake in the political world today, that individual is Marcus A. Hanna. He is a hustler from Hustlerville, and he is determined that it will not be his fault if there are any stay-at-home Republican voters in the land in the month of November next.—East Liverpool News-Review.

Come along, Mr. Bryan, and see Youngstown in the full enjoyment of Republican prosperity. — Youngstown Telegram.

"What was Jones after when he left the Republican party? Office. What was he after last year? Office. What is he after now that he has flopped again? Office, of course. Look out and see if the event does not verify my prediction."—An Observer of the Jones' Movements.

BRYAN'S SILLINESS.

Out of his own mouth in his set speech at St. Louis on the trust question, Bryan stands convicted of caring more for state rights than to control the trusts. He characterized the Republican constitutional amendment as "vicious," and "intended to deprive the states of the power they now possess, rather than to confer upon congress new authority." If Mr. Bryan is ignorant of it, Democrats who are good lawyers, are fully aware that without an amendment to the constitution, congress can not prevent the shipment to a citizen of one state of goods bought by him in another state from a trust or monopoly. Thus Bryan denounces the disease, but refuses the only remedy that can accomplish anything practical.

"The American market will be cheap enough then, with no wages to buy with," says a commercial traveler in a note to the New York Sun, asking "What will the American mechanic do when Bryan puts all that corporations make on the free list, and opens the free trade door to foreign trusts?"

"A great reservoir of wealth" the United States has become, "from which the most powerful states of the old world do not hesitate to seek to replenish their resources." This is the way the great financial journal in London looks at the recent American loans to foreign countries that Bryan sneers at. Which is the better business authority?

EVENTS BRIEFLY NARRATED.

Perry Belmont refused New York First district Democratic nomination for congress.

Colonel Quay and his spellbinders held a big meeting at Norristown, Pa. The ex-senator talked only briefly.

The election of Mr. Bryan would do nothing whatever to influence the decision that the courts will give. Imperialism is, therefore, no more an issue before the people than is any other judicial question now pending in the supreme court of the United States.

But let us remark that Bryanism, while it is not before the supreme court, is a menace and a threat against the supreme court and the powers conferred upon it by the constitution of the United States.

OUR GOOD TITLE.

How Would Bryan Vitate Our Rights to the Philippines?

What is there back of Bryan's repeated remark that the United States has not a good title to the Philippines? Does it mean that "if President" he will have his attorney general give an opinion that will take the American American troops away and surrender the islands? was not this flag-furling foreshadowed weeks ago by Cotton Baler Jones, chairman of the Democratic National committee, when he was asked whether Mr. Bryan, in the event of his election, would order American troops to leave the Philippines? His answer was: "We sent the troops there in ships. I guess we can bring them away in ships. We had no more right to send soldiers there than we have to send them to fight against any government in Europe. Congress has never authorized the prosecution of war against the Filipinos, and without action of Congress what right has anybody to carry on such a war?"

INSULT TO SOLDIERS.

Are our American soldiers mere mercenaries, as Bryan insinuates that they are? Whether in the regulars or volunteers, the boys in blue of today are just as patriotic as their fathers of 30 years ago, although not so numerous by 1 in 20. At Milwaukee, Bryan, talking to the Germans, as he supposed (but the Germans were too patriotic to listen to him), got off the gag he has repeated so often that the Republican party "would take their sons away from them for service in the Philippines" and appease them "by leaving a gold dollar in their pocket." If this is not a double insult to the soldiers and their fathers alike, then the English language has lots its meaning.

BRYAN'S SILLINESS.

Out of his own mouth in his set speech at St. Louis on the trust question, Bryan stands convicted of caring more for state rights than to control the trusts. He characterized the Republican constitutional amendment as "vicious," and "intended to deprive the states of the power they now possess, rather than to confer upon congress new authority." If Mr. Bryan is ignorant of it, Democrats who are good lawyers, are fully aware that without an amendment to the constitution, congress can not prevent the shipment to a citizen of one state of goods bought by him in another state from a trust or monopoly. Thus Bryan denounces the disease, but refuses the only remedy that can accomplish anything practical.

"The American market will be cheap enough then, with no wages to buy with," says a commercial traveler in a note to the New York Sun, asking "What will the American mechanic do when Bryan puts all that corporations make on the free list, and opens the free trade door to foreign trusts?"

"A great reservoir of wealth" the United States has become, "from which the most powerful states of the old world do not hesitate to seek to replenish their resources." This is the way the great financial journal in London looks at the recent American loans to foreign countries that Bryan sneers at. Which is the better business authority?

PENSION QUESTION.

Facts Regarding the Records of the Two Parties.

of the Soldier, His Widow and Orphans. Cleveland's Malicious Policy on the Matter—What the Present Administration Has Done in This Regard.

"The organized pension grabbers have a great weight in politics, and they never fail to use it. Just let an executive officer try to execute the laws and hold down the pension frauds and a howl goes up from that class, many of whom are members of that treasury-fed, treasury-fattened organization called the Grand Army of the Republic. No sooner do the Grand Army posts have a meeting than these same pension attorneys set up a howl against the offending officer and go to work to have him removed. Such has been the case with the present commissioner of pensions. So permeating and far-reaching is this baneful influence that Democrats in the north, in many instances, are as bad or worse than Republicans. It seems that in that section of the country where the pension crop exceeds almost any other source of money supply, Republicans, Democrats and Populists fall over each other in their efforts to execute the will and wish of this army of pensioners."

These are the words spoken in congress February 14, 1900, by Thetus Willrette Sims, of Linden, Tennessee, representing the Eighth district of that Democratic stronghold. They boil down into a paragraph the real, inner feeling of the Democracy of the dominant and controlling section of the Democratic party upon the question of pensions for the Union soldiers who whipped them. The intense hostility and ugly temper manifested by this Tennessee Democratic congressman, nevertheless touch a certain vein of truth. Singularly enough, the one speech in the house at the late session that fully warranted all that Mr. Sims said and insinuated about "these same pension attorneys" that "set up a howl," came from a Democrat, Hon. William Sulzer, of New York, the Tammany pet who dreamed that he was to be on the ticket for vice president with Bryan. Thus he is no insignificant figure in Democratic circles. Sulzer's speech, dated June 5, 1900, is just as much an insult to every decent, honest soldier, or widow or orphan of a soldier, as anything Sims said. Sims talks right out about the "organized pension grabbers," but recognizes that they are not so much soldiers as those who use the name of the soldiers for their own profit, while Sulzer's entire speech, so far as it relates to pensions, proceeds absolutely upon the assumption that every soldier is indeed a "pension grabber," and has no motive in any claim he may make upon the government for his services except to get the most that he can, honestly or dishonestly. More than eight of the broad pages of the Congressional Record, in its very finest type, are filled by Sulzer with what he calls "some data regarding pension matters," that proves to be, not his words in the last, but simply a rehash of pension attorney attacks upon the pension bureau for months before the speech was made. These attacks, kept up incessantly in a newspaper operating nominally for the benefit of the old soldiers and having some circulation among them for that reason, was used by Sulzer as about all he has to say on the pension question. The meanest of all the mean things in these systematic attacks that betray in every line their writer's wrath because the pension bureau has not bent the knee to his demands, have been gathered by the Democratic committees into leaflets and sown broadcast among the veteran soldiers of Ohio upon the degrading supposition that these brave and true men can be seduced from the party that has alone legislated in their behalf, and betrayed into the support of the party that has alone worked against them in congress and at the White house. Sulzer seems to suppose that no motive

but a mercenary one exists among the American soldiers, and "any old lie" that touches the pocket-nerve, appears to him sufficient for circulation to deceive our veterans.

A few days after Sulzer spoke, Hon. Charles Dick, of Ohio, gave the absolute facts from the records as to the immense services to the soldiers by the Republicans in congress, and in the executive departments, throughout the entire period since the war, and took up item by item every accusation made by Sulzer's pension agency organ. Twenty-six of these false and unjust charges are clearly stated and specifically answered. Every soldier should read this speech of General Dick, and mark the contrast between its fair, strong and courteous replies, and the slanderous accusations. It is impossible in our brief space to touch upon these individually, but the fourteenth count is a fair illustration. Sulzer attacks Commissioner Evans for rejecting claimants over 62 years of age, as if there were some law for their particular benefit. But there is no such statute and, as General Dick says, "it is manifestly absurd to charge the commissioner with the violation of a law which has no existence, and this charge is a fair specimen of the recklessness which was obtained in formulating the different counts in this indictment."

What do the soldiers say to this Sulzer insinuation that no motive but a mercenary one inspires them in their pension applications, and that they care not what laws are broken or what injustice is done, so long as they get a grab from the treasury, right or wrong? Is it not such things as Sulzer says that alone give occasion for such gratuitous and unmitigated insults as Sims spoke? Both are Democrats, both think alike at heart about the pension matter, and their party thinks with them. The proof of it was in the Democratic conduct when it had the power under President Cleveland, and in the fact that six out of every ten Democrats in congress in the votes upon the 14 great pension measures since the war, have voted against them. Nothing will so surely hasten the break-down of the entire pension system to the positive harm of all the thousands justly entitled to government aid, as such speeches as Sulzer's; for every Democratic vote since the Democratic circulation of the Sulzer speeches ratifies what he has said, and hastens the day when may be realized these words with which his brother Democrat, Sims, of Tennessee, equally a Bryan supporter, closed his speech:

"Mr. Chairman if the southern members of this house, who are not entirely dependent on the pensioners' vote for a seat in this house, do not take hold of this evil and by determined and long-continued effort root it out, no mortal can predict to what ruinous lengths it will go. Speaking for myself, I most solemnly declare that as long as I am honored with a seat in this body I shall never cease to make the best efforts of which, in my weakness, I am capable to root out and utterly destroy this monster of evil, and I call on all my colleagues of the south who have the courage of their convictions to stand by me in this fight."

If there were no trusts until McKinley came in, how was it that the Democratic congress 12 years ago (1888) found so many of them, according to the report of its committee on the subject? At that time, the President and House were Democratic and the Senate short of it by only two votes.

Bryan for President brings a Bryan congress, and starts the silver smas at 16 to 1. What will the railroads do then about their interest due in gold, with two dollars of interest to be earned for every dollar of interest to be paid? Will that fact affect and cut the wages of railroad workers?

Not a word yet from Bryan or his Chairman Jones, about the latter's cotton bale trust. There is not even an intimation of the surrender of a penny of the profits that have made Jones rated a millionaire in the news.

It is the humble man that advances. He recognizes his imperfections and strives to improve. His progress is the result of his knowledge of self. The vain, conceited, arrogant man stands still.

IMPERIALISM

NOW DEFINED BY PERRY BELMONT FOR DEMOCRATS.

It is a Judicial Question, Not One to Be Settled by the People at the Ballot Box—Hence It Is Not Properly an Issue in the Pending Campaign.

Ever since the present campaign began, there has been a difficulty in understanding exactly what Mr. Bryan means by the term "Imperialism." The first definition which has been attempted is that of Hon. Perry Belmont of New York, in a letter addressed to Hon. John T. McGraw, who is the Democratic national committeeman of West Virginia. Mr. Belmont says:

"The Republican idea, the imperialistic idea, is that all the millions of people in our territories and islands can, in time of peace, be governed by congress according to its fancy, unrestrained by the constitution and the judicial powers. * * * Such imperialism was by the Kansas City convention made the supreme issue."

Here we have it. Imperialism, in the Democratic mind, is not the government of the Philippines, but the government of the Philippines "unrestrained by the constitution." In reply to this it is but necessary to mention three pertinent facts:

First—The Republican policy is in accordance with every legislative act applied to newly acquired territory since the United States began its tremendous march of expansion.

Second—The United States supreme court backs this up with exhaustive and overwhelming authority.

Third—The issue of imperialism, as defined by Mr. Belmont above, is again before the national courts.

If the Republican policy is unconstitutional, therefore, it will be so decided, and reversed. If the courts shall hold it to be correct, then the Democrats will be constitutionally bound to abandon their present position, drop their imperialistic argument, and obey the court.

Hence, it follows that imperialism is a bogus issue, because it is not one that can be settled by the people at the ballot box. It is a question for the judicial branch of the government, not for the legislative or the executive. The election of Mr. Bryan would do nothing whatever to influence the decision that the courts will give. Imperialism is, therefore, no more an issue before the people than is any other judicial question now pending in the supreme court of the United States.

But let us remark that Bryanism, while it is not before the supreme court, is a menace and a threat against the supreme court and the powers conferred upon it by the constitution of the United States.

FOR CONTRACTION.

Democratic Newspapers Flout Bryan's "Imperialism" Cry.

WE HAVE ALREADY EXPANDED,

Hence Bryan Stands For Contraction, and a Relinquishment of Part of the National Area—Symposium of Democratic Opinions on This Point.

There is such a flocking from Bryan, or such sharp criticisms upon him and his course by his supporters, the southern Democratic press being particularly notable in this respect by its caustic comments upon its candidate, that it is well to group some of these things together.

The Democracy of the Galveston News, for instance, is not to be impugned, yet that principal Texas organ observes that "one thing is altogether certain, and that is that we have, in the language of Colonel Culberson, 'done already expanded,' and the fact is known to every thinking man in the country." The only possible conclusion left is that Bryan's plan means contraction.

An Iowa Independent Democratic paper, the Des Moines Leader, thinks that "the money question is more important than the colonial one."

A great Massachusetts paper of the same description, the Boston Herald, Independent Democratic, finds "a distrust of Bryan which overbalances any distrust of McKinley. The one is immediate, the other comparatively ultimate. Bryan as president threatens the welfare of the country at once, not only in the wild ideas he has as regards the currency, but in the incompetency or worse of the men he has about him, and on whom we must rely for his administration if he comes into power. McKinley disclaims altogether imperialism in its more objectionable form; Bryan does not disclaim his intention to fix free silver upon the country, and to put its active supporters into charge of the government. On striking a balance here we think the conviction of all conservative men, whether they be Republicans, Democrats or Independents, must be of the certain and summary risk of Bryan as president, and that this will be the deciding factor in their minds when weighed against the dangers more in the future urged against electing McKinley."

E. C. Benedict, a lifelong New York Democrat, and closest friend of ex-President Cleveland, in refusing to contribute to the Democratic campaign fund, declares that the Bryanites "promulgated a platform of doctrines almost wholly at variance" with "unquestioned Democratic principles." He "would as soon thing of contributing to a lot of Chinese who have captured our Christian churches and call themselves regular Christians."

Former Democratic United States Senator M. C. Butler of South Carolina described the present prosperity of the south, and says that many persons there "see in protection especially a very beneficial thing to everybody concerned." He thinks that "the Democratic party made a mistake when it raised the cry of anti-imperialism," and he "don't believe that there is any such a thing. As for the southern people, I don't see how any of them, especially those in the cotton business, can see anything not beneficial to them in the policy of expansion. I think Mr. McKinley has made a most excellent president. He is thoroughly conscientious, intensely patriotic and has the best interests of the country, north and south, at heart."

In a letter to the New York Post (Independent), William B. Hornblower, the New York Democratic lawyer nominated for the United States supreme court by Cleveland, pronounces for McKinley. He says that "the most important issue is whether our domestic affairs are to be thrown into confusion and exposed to disaster." He holds that the colonial question can wait and is "by no means certain that Mr. Bryan would be a safe person to whom to entrust the imperialistic question." At any rate it "must wait until we have settled the question of the present, and that

THE POWERS IN ACCORD.

Beginning to Take Kindly to Attitude of United States, as to China.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Favorable news has reached Washington from the European chancelleries, indicating that a complete agreement as to China is within sight. The agreement will be on the basis of the propositions laid down by Secretary Hay in his note of July 3, and the subsequent notes treating of that subject. The accord of Russia with the United States is more complete than was anticipated at first, and the reports show that all of the European nations probably are placing themselves in position to take advantage of the opening made by the United States, and soon will be ready to begin negotiations for a settlement with the Chinese government. The Russians already have given notices of such purposes, and while the text of the French note on this subject, referred to in press dispatches, had not reached the state department, the officials were satisfied that this is correctly reported, and that France, like Russia, is ready to negotiate at once.

As for Germany, either the position of that government has been misunderstood or it has sustained a change of mind. Possibly the former is the case, but, however that may be, it is quite certain from the advices which have reached Washington today that the German government, upon careful inspection of the plans for a settlement projected by the United States, finds therein nothing inconsistent with the German aspirations. Therefore it may be expected that Germany too will be prepared soon to join in this common movement toward a settlement. It may be stated that altogether the prospects of an adjustment of the Chinese difficulty without resort to formal war are very much brighter than they were one week ago.

A cablegram from Mr. Conger recited the departure of the Russian minister and suite from Peking. There was an authentication by Minister Wu of the Chinese edict, providing for the punishment of Tuan and the guilty princes.

MUST PUNISH INSTIGATORS.

Reply of the German Emperor to a Note From the Emperor of China.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—The German emperor received a message from the Chinese emperor, stating that libations of grief would be performed for the murdered Baron von Ketteler.

The German emperor told him that besides the baron a number of Christian bishops and missionaries had been murdered and that only the punishment of the high dignitaries, guilty of instigating the crimes, would satisfy Germany and the Christian nations.

PRINCE ORDERED FOREIGNERS KILLED

Defense of Man Accused of Killing Baron Von Ketteler.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—Official advices from Peking, dated Sept. 23, asserted that a further examination of the Chinese non-commissioned officer accused of the murder of Baron von Ketteler, resulted in this statement:

"On June 21 I and my people received orders from a prince to shoot foreigners wherever we came across them."

The accused, it appears, denied that the order was to shoot a minister or the German minister, and he declared himself unable to say which prince gave the order.

Americans and Missionaries Work.

Peking, Sept. 26, via Shanghai, Oct. 3.—The Americans, with the assistance of missionaries, are trying a system of pacification throughout numerous villages in the vicinity of Tung Chau.

Ohio Training Ship Arrived.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 3.—The United States training ship Hawk, manned by the Cleveland division of the Ohio Naval Reserves, arrived here from Norfolk, Va. She came via the St. Lawrence and Welland canal. The Hawk will hereafter be stationed at Cleveland and used by the Ohio Naval Reserves as a training ship.

"For labor a short day is better than a short dollar. One will lighten the burdens, the other lessen the results of toil."

BRYAN'S THREAT.

Made In 1896, It Stands Good This Year.

HE DECLARED SO AT MILWAUKEE

Congressman Dockery, of Missouri, Promises Free Silver in Case of Bryan's Election—Voters Will Do Well to Look Facts in the Face.

William J. Bryan, in his speech at Knoxville, Tenn., on Sept. 16, 1896, said: "If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing, or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."

If the country believes Bryan, those who dread silver supremacy on the day after his election—should that calamity occur—will take him at his word, and begin to unload. The experience of disaster to the country after the election of 1892 will repeat itself. This will not be politics, but business; and the old rule of "every man save himself" will be in full operation, regardless of partisanship.

Mr. Bryan is not so open in his silver utterances this year as he was in 1896; but in his speech at Milwaukee on Saturday, Sept. 8, he declared as follows: "The position of the Democratic party on the money question is known. It has undergone no change. The same Democratic platform that declared in favor of the restoration of bimetalism also declared that, in this campaign, the restoration of the principles of self-government found in the Declaration of Independence was the paramount issue of the hour."

The same Democratic platform, too, declared twice for 16 to 1 silver, while the silver Republican and Populist platforms, upon which Bryan is just as much a candidate for President today, make the silver standard "the immediate issue," and thus having precedence of the simply paramount, Bryan's Milwaukee declaration—thus reaffirms his declaration at Knoxville, Tenn., that "the gold standard will not be maintained longer than I am able to get rid of it." Thus every Bryan vote is a vote to get rid of the present prosperity conditions.

The program of carrying the country for free silver by means of the bugaboo of imperialism is well understood by the Democratic leaders. Representative Dockery, of Missouri, Democratic leader in the House, and candidate for governor of his state, said in a speech at Lebanon, Mo., a few days ago, that the first thing that Bryan will do after he is inaugurated President will be to write an invitation over the door of every mint in the United States to silver and gold to come and be coined free, without limit, at the ratio of 16 to 1. That's for the South and West. In the East these things are kept concealed.

DEPOSITORS AND DEPOSITS.

In 1894, the various banks of the United States, national, state and private, and savings and loan and trust companies, had 5,545,867 depositors. Last year at the date of the latest combined reports, this number was increased by nearly 40 per cent, to 7,655,414 depositors. The increase in deposits from Democratic freed trade times in 1894 to Republican prosperity in 1899 was even greater, being nearly 60 per cent gain, advancing from $2,374,539,406 to $4,608,096,005. Even more significant, if anything, is the increase in individual deposits from an average of $520 for each person to $602 for each person. Bryanism would undo all of that.

FOR CONTRACTION.

Democratic Newspapers Flout Bryan's "Imperialism" Cry.

Hence Bryan Stands For Contraction, and a Relinquishment of Part of the National Area—Symposium of Democratic Opinions on This Point.

There is such a flocking from Bryan, or such sharp criticisms upon him and his course by his supporters, the southern Democratic press being particularly notable in this respect by its caustic comments upon its candidate, that it is well to group some of these things together.

The Democracy of the Galveston News, for instance, is not to be impugned, yet that principal Texas organ observes that "one thing is altogether certain, and that is that we have, in the language of Colonel Culberson, 'done already expanded,' and the fact is known to every thinking man in the country." The only possible conclusion left is that Bryan's plan means contraction.

An Iowa Independent Democratic paper, the Des Moines Leader, thinks that "the money question is more important than the colonial one."

A great Massachusetts paper of the same description, the Boston Herald, Independent Democratic, finds "a distrust of Bryan which overbalances any distrust of McKinley. The one is immediate, the other comparatively ultimate. Bryan as president threatens the welfare of the country at once, not only in the wild ideas he has as regards the currency, but in the incompetency or worse of the men he has about him, and on whom we must rely for his administration if he comes into power. McKinley disclaims altogether imperialism in its more objectionable form; Bryan does not disclaim his intention to fix free silver upon the country, and to put its active supporters into charge of the government. On striking a balance here we think the conviction of all conservative men, whether they be Republicans, Democrats or Independents, must be of the certain and summary risk of Bryan as president, and that this will be the deciding factor in their minds when weighed against the dangers more in the future urged against electing McKinley."

E. C. ## FOR CONTRACTION.

Democratic Newspapers Flout Bryan's "Imperialism" Cry.

Hence Bryan Stands For Contraction, and a Relinquishment of Part of the National Area—Symposium of Democratic Opinion on This Point.

There is such a flocking from Bryan, or such sharp criticisms upon him and his course by his supporters, the southern Democratic press being particularly notable in this respect by its caustic comments upon its candidate, that it is well to group some of these things together.

The Democracy of the Galveston News, for instance, is not to be impugned, yet that principal Texas organ observes that "one thing is altogether certain, and that is that we have, in the language of Colonel Culberson, 'done already expanded,' and the fact is known to every thinking man in the country." The only possible conclusion left is that Bryan's plan means contraction.

An Iowa Independent Democratic paper, the Des Moines Leader, thinks that "the money question is more important than the colonial one."

A great Massachusetts paper of the same description, the Boston Herald, independent Democratic, finds "a distrust of Bryan which overbalances any distrust of McKinley. The one is immediate, the other comparatively ultimate. Bryan as president threatens the welfare of the country at once, not only in the wild ideas he has as regards the currency, but in the incompetency or worse of the men he has about him, and on whom we must rely for his administration if he comes into power. McKinley disclaims altogether imperialism in its more objectionable form; Bryan does not disclaim his intention to fix free silver upon the country, and to put its active supporters into charge of the government. On striking a balance here we think the conviction of all conservative men, whether they be Republicans, Democrats or Independents, must be of the certain and summary risk of Bryan as president, and that this will be the deciding factor in their minds when weighed against the dangers more in the future urged against electing McKinley."

E. C. Benedict, a lifelong New York Democrat, and closest friend of ex-President Cleveland, in refusing to contribute to the Democratic campaign fund, declares that the Bryanites "promulgated a platform of doctrines almost wholly at variance" with "unquestioned Democratic principles." He "would as soon think of contributing to a lot of Chinese who have captured our Christian churches and call themselves regular Christians."

Former Democratic United States Senator M. C. Butler of South Carolina described the present prosperity of the south, and says that many persons there "see in protection especially a very beneficial thing to everybody concerned." He thinks that "the Democratic party made a mistake when it raised the cry of anti-imperialism," and he "don't believe that there is any such a thing. As for the southern people, I don't see how any of them, especially those in the cotton business, can see anything not beneficial to them in the policy of expansion. I think Mr. McKinley has made a most excellent president. He is thoroughly conscientious, intensely patriotic and has the best interests of the country, north and south, at heart."

In a letter to the New York Post (Independent), William B. Hornblower, the New York Democratic lawyer nominated for the United States supreme court by Cleveland, pronounces for McKinley. He says that "the most important issue is whether our domestic affairs are to be thrown into confusion and exposed to disaster." He holds that the colonial question can wait and is "by no means certain that Mr. Bryan would be a safe person to whom to entrust the imperialistic question." At any rate it "must wait until we have settled the question of the present, and that

THE POWERS IN ACCORD.

Beginning to Take Kindly to Attitude of United States, as to China.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Favorable news has reached Washington from the European chancelleries, indicating that a complete agreement as to China is within sight. The agreement will be on the basis of the propositions laid down by Secretary Hay in his note of July 3, and the subsequent notes treating of that subject. The accord of Russia with the United States is more complete than was anticipated at first, and the reports show that all of the European nations probably are placing themselves in position to take advantage of the opening made by the United States, and soon will be ready to begin negotiations for a settlement with the Chinese government. The Russians already have given notices of such purposes, and while the text of the French note on this subject, referred to in press dispatches, had not reached the state department, the officials were satisfied that this is correctly reported, and that France, like Russia, is ready to negotiate at once.

As for Germany, either the position of that government has been misunderstood or it has sustained a change of mind. Possibly the former is the case, but, however that may be, it is quite certain from the advices which have reached Washington today that the German government, upon careful inspection of the plans for a settlement projected by the United States, finds therein nothing inconsistent with the German aspirations. Therefore it may be expected that Germany too will be prepared soon to join in this common movement toward a settlement. It may be stated that altogether the prospects of an adjustment of the Chinese difficulty without resort to formal war are very much brighter than they were one week ago.

A cablegram from Mr. Conger recited the departure of the Russian minister and suite from Peking. There was an authentication by Minister Wu of the Chinese edict, providing for the punishment of Tuan and the guilty princes.

MUST PUNISH INSTIGATORS.

Reply of the German Emperor to a Note From the Emperor of China.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—The German emperor received a message from the Chinese emperor, stating that libations of grief would be performed for the murdered Baron von Ketteler.

The German emperor told him that besides the baron a number of Christian bishops and missionaries had been murdered and that only the punishment of the high dignitaries, guilty of instigating the crimes, would satisfy Germany and the Christian nations.

PRINCE ORDERED FOREIGNERS KILLED

Defense of Man Accused of Killing Baron Von Ketteler.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—Official advices from Peking, dated Sept. 23, asserted that a further examination of the Chinese non-commissioned officer accused of the murder of Baron von Ketteler, resulted in this statement:

"On June 21 I and my people received orders from a prince to shoot foreigners wherever we came across them."

The accused, it appears, denied that the order was to shoot a minister or the German minister, and he declared himself unable to say which prince gave the order.

Americans and Missionaries Work.

Peking, Sept. 26, via Shanghai, Oct. 3.—The Americans, with the assistance of missionaries, are trying a system of pacification throughout numerous villages in the vicinity of Tung Chau.

Ohio Training Ship Arrived.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 3.—The United States training ship Hawk, manned by the Cleveland division of the Ohio Naval Reserves, arrived here from Norfolk, Va. She came via the St. Lawrence and Welland canal. The Hawk will hereafter be stationed at Cleveland and used by the Ohio Naval Reserves as a training ship.

"For labor a short day is better than a short dollar. One will lighten the burdens, the other lessen the results of toil."

—President McKinley's letter of acceptance.

BRYAN'S THREAT.

HE DECLARED SO AT MILWAUKEE

Congressman Dockery, of Missouri, Promises Free Silver In Case of Bryan's Election—Voters Will Do Well to Look Facts In the Face.

William J. Bryan, in his speech at Knoxville, Tenn., on Sept. 16, 1896, said: "If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing, or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."

If the country believes Bryan, those who dread silver supremacy on the day after his election—should that calamity occur—will take him at his word, and begin to unload. The experience of disaster to the country after the election of 1892 will repeat itself. This will not be politics, but business; and the old rule of "every man save himself" will be in full operation, regardless of partisanship.

Mr. Bryan is not so open in his silver utterances this year as he was in 1896; but in his speech at Milwaukee on Saturday, Sept. 8, he declared as follows: "The position of the Democratic party on the money question is known. It has undergone no change. The same Democratic platform that declared in favor of the restoration of bimetalism also declared that, in this campaign, the restoration of the principles of self-government found in the Declaration of Independence was the paramount issue of the hour."

The same Democratic platform, too, declared twice for 16 to 1 silver, while the silver Republican and Populist platforms, upon which Bryan is just as much a candidate for President today, make the silver standard "the immediate issue," and thus having precedence of the simply paramount, Bryan's Milwaukee declaration—thus reaffirms his declaration at Knoxville, Tenn., that "the gold standard will not be maintained longer than I am able to get rid of it." Thus every Bryan vote is a vote to get rid of the present prosperity conditions.

The program of carrying the country for free silver by means of the bugaboo of imperialism is well understood by the Democratic leaders. Representative Dockery, of Missouri, Democratic leader in the House, and candidate for governor of his state, said in a speech at Lebanon, Mo., a few days ago, that the first thing that Bryan will do after he is inaugurated President will be to write an invitation over the door of every mint in the United States to silver and gold to come and be coined free, without limit, at the ratio of 16 to 1. That's for the South and West. In the East these things are kept concealed.

OUR MOTTO IS: TAKE : CARE OF A GOOD THING : WHEN YOU HAVE IT AND : VOTE FOR MCKINLEY AND : DO NOT RUN OFF AFTER : FOOLISH, SENTIMENTAL : AND UNTRIED NOTIONS, : WITH SURE DISASTER TO : FOLLOW, WHICH IS THE : CASE IF YOU VOTE FOR : BRYAN." — New Lexington : Tribune.

DEPOSITORS AND DEPOSITS.

In 1894, the various banks of the United States, national, state and private, and savings and loan and trust companies, had 5,545,867 depositors. Last year at the date of the latest combined reports, this number was increased by nearly 40 per cent, to 7,655,414 depositors. The increase in deposits from Democratic freed trade times in 1894 to Republican prosperity in 1899 was even greater, being nearly 60 per cent gain, advancing from $2,374,589,406 to $4,608,096,005. Even more significant, if anything, is the increase in individual deposits from an average of $520 for each person to $602 for each person. Bryanism would undo all of that.

$300 FOR BUILDING PURPOSES

The hospital association has once more revived and renewed efforts will be made to get the hospital building started soon.

They met Monday evening with a large number of members present. They found that they had $1,000 in the bank, and it was decided to pay it on the land.

The amount was paid yesterday to Mr. Croxall for the property on Calcutta road, which they purchased for the hospital site, and he generously threw off the interest.

There is yet $1,500 to be paid and they will soon start out taking subscriptions, and as soon as that amount is raised the erection of the building will be commenced.

The association would like the people who have donated to please pay the person to whom subscribed.

Some time ago the association appointed a vice president with helpers in each ward for collecting money, and as there were some vacancies they were filled at this meeting.

The association has $300, which was donated by Mrs. Stewart, that can be used for building purposes alone.

Another meeting will be held soon.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

Columbiana County Was Once a Strong Democratic County, But Things Have Changed.

The political man of the Ohio State Journal has the following which will be news to many people in East Liverpool:

Six of the strongest Republican counties were once Democratic Giblaltars, viz: Columbiana, Jefferson, Belmont, Stark, Pike and Vinton; the first two having been changed on the old slavery question, and the last four on the economic issues.

There are only two counties once Whig that are now in the Democratic column, Pickaway and Licking. Four of the big counties, Hamilton, Cuyahoga, Franklin and Montgomery, have boxed the compass and been on all sides, off and on, since their organization, but for several years have been largely Republican.

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE OHIO VOTER

Secretary of State Kinney Has Just Issued a Very Interesting Circular.

EVERY VOTER SHOULD READ IT

A Number of Suggestions and
Judges of Election.

THINGS WELL WORTH KNOWING

Secretary of State Charles Kinney,
in his capacity as state supervisor of
elections, has issued his annual instructions to voters and election officers as follows:

The election for 1900 occurs November 6. A person otherwise qualified to vote who becomes of age on the 7th (that is, whose birthday is the
7th) of November, is entitled to vote
at the election held on the 6th.

A person who came into the state
of Ohio with the intention of remaining and becoming a citizen, on the 6th day of November, 1899 (or prior), is entitled to vote on the 6th, provided
he is otherwise qualified.

A person who came into the county
not later than the 7th of October, 1900, is entitled to vote if otherwise
qualified.

An unmarried man who came into
the township, or into a ward of municipality not later than October 17, 1900, if otherwise qualified, is entitled
to vote.

The "head of a family" who came into the state not later than the 6th
of November, 1899, and into the county not later than October 7, 1900, is entitled to vote in the township, ward
or precinct in which his family resides,
whether he has been in such township,
ward, or precinct one or more days.

The words "head of a family" have been held to mean "he who provides for a family;" "the husband or father
be a head where there is no marriage
relation."

The place where a person sleeps is his "habitation." The place where he eats or has his washing done has nothing to do with his "habitation." His voting place is, therefore, in the ward
or precinct where he sleeps. Provided,

A married man (unless "where husband and wife have separated and
live apart") is entitled to vote only
where his family permanently resides.

A married man separated from, and
living apart from his wife, but who
is living with and providing for his children, is the "head of a family,"
and is entitled to vote where his family resides.

A married man separated from, and
living apart from his wife, and not the
"head of a family," is entitled to vote
only as an unmarried man.

If a married man moves into a
county not later than October 7, and
his wife, or if separated from his wife,
his family does not come into the county until the 8th of October, or
thereafter, he is not entitled to vote.

If the wife of a married man, or if
separated from his wife, the family
moves into the county in good faith,
not later than the 7th of October, he
is entitled to vote, no matter if he
until after the 7th.

"That place shall be considered the residence of a person in which his
of returning."

"A person shall not be considered
to have lost his residence who leaves
his home and goes into another state,
or county of this state, for temporar-

ry purposes merely, with the intention
of returning."

Whether a person has left his usual
voting place for temporary purposes
only is largely to be determined by the judges. The length of time of temporary absence is not to be considered
as long as the right of franchise was
not exercised by the voter somewhere else, and so long as it was his intention to return. A person in the government service at Washington or elsewhere, is "temporarily" absent and
entitled to vote. Likewise a person
absent in the service of the state of Ohio is "temporarily" absent, and entitled to vote at the place he resided
before going into the state's service,
whether his family is absent with him
or not.

For opinions as to rights of students
and inmates of infirmaries, see Digest
of Ballot Laws.

CHARLES KINNEY,
Secretary of State.

WORDS OF COMFORT.

This Lady Speaks Her Mind Along the Line of Clean Journalism.

Editor News Review—Permit me to
thank you in that you did not disap-point my expectations. And accept
my hearty congratulations on your sturdy and manly stand for clean government and obedience to law. I will explain my reason for this introductory. In company with many other citizens of East Liverpool, I felt very keenly the disgrace put upon our city
by the brewery parade—the flaunting
in our faces of a feature which should hide itself away from the sight of all that is good and pure and clean and
right.

I was in the company of a number
of lady friends, when my attention was called to flaring advertisements of the brewery opening, appearing in certain
journals published in this community,
and I made the remark that I was
very thankful that there was one paper
in East Liverpool which would not
thus disgrace itself, and that I felt morally certain that the advertisement designated would not appear in the News Review. Some of my lady
friends laughingly said:

"Don't be too sure; the love of
money is a strong inducement to the
average newspaper man."

I reiterated my statement and asserted that I would not believe that it would appear in the News Review until I would see it there. Well, Mr.
Editor, as my little son says, you could
have "knocked me down with a feather" when I picked up your paper the
same evening, saw a full-page display advertisement flash before my
eyes and mentally said:

"Oh, how could he do it? How could
he do it?"

And how my heart was gladdened
when a closer glance showed me the
advertisement of a legitimate business house in this city, and I actually
cried in very joy.

Don't get weary in well doing. You have a great mass of men and women
who will stand by you and remain
loyal to you and your paper as long
as you stand by and advocate the right. And best of all, you have the assurance of one who never fails in taking care of his own; and when you
advocate the right, from pure purpose,
He says:

"I will never leave thee nor forsake
thee."

THREE DELEGATES

October 23, and remain in session un-

Methodist Protestant church of this city: Mrs. Hannah Hall, Mrs. Fran-

THE "IDLE" SOLDIERS.

These Are Bryan's Words, And Every Lover of Old Glory Should
Mark Them Well

William Jennings Bryan, chief agent
of the silver trust; colonel in the Home Guards, resigning when there
were indications of active service;
backer of Aguinaldo; chief calamity
howler and breeder of strikes, suffering and starvation; advocate of
"empty dinner pails" and "shadow
soup" houses, has seen fit to insult our brave boys who have done such glorious work in Cuba, the Philippines and China. We quote his language:

"This country has a hundred thousand soldiers walking around in idle-
ness."—W. J. Bryan.

We clip the following from the Baltimore American, and present the same to Bryan for his consideration:
Walking around in idleness,

Wherever the flag's assailed;
Meeting the foe with an idle might
That never yet has failed.
Lawton, and Liscum, and Logan, too—
Capron—the list is long—
Went to their death in "idleness,"
And their "idleness" was wrong.

Grant and Sherman and Sheridan—
Why should we call the roll?
They idled away in the idle fight—
In fights that tired the soul.

"Walking around in idleness"—
Braving the leaden hail,
What of the glow of a nation's pride?
Is that but an idle tale?

"Walking around in idleness,"
Over the Peking road;
Scorched and worn by the galling sun,
Lugging an idle load.

Fighting with idle energy,
Cheering with idle breath—
Thinking, with idle love, of home,
And dying an idle death.

Private Smith, with an idle groan,
Gone to a home above;
And idle tears mark the idle woe
And idle mother's love.

"Walking around in idleness"—
Lawton and Liscum, too;
Legions more will come idly when
There are idle deeds to do.

UNLAWFUL.

Fortune Tellers Are Prohibited from Doing Business in This State.

Not everyone is aware of the fact
that during the last session of the general assembly, a law was passed
making fortune telling a penal offense.
The law in question was passed April 16, 1900.

In a very few sentences it sets
forth that the fortune tellers, palm-
lists, clairvoyants and astrologers
should discontinue their work. The penalty attached is a fine of not more than $100, nor less than $25, or a sentence of three months or not less than 30 days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Tiffin this morning. He had been attending the funeral of his brother, James Hanlon, at East Palestine, and stopped over for a visit with his parents in this city.

Women Who Work

Nine out of ten women are afflicted with some of the common ailments known as female diseases. Among women whose employment requires them to stand on their feet or sit in the same position all day, not one in twenty-five escape these troubles. The average feminine constitution cannot, unaided, withstand the strain to which steady, trying work subjects them. The organs of womanhood are so delicate and finely adjusted that the inevitable result of constant standing, lifting, stooping or straining is displacement of vital parts. The disorder is usually slight at first, but soon develops into irregular or painful menstruation, leucorrhœa or falling of the womb. Wine of Cardui is the right remedy for female weakness. As such it is offered to you. Wine of Cardui will not perform miracles, but it will, if taken as directed, insure painless
and regular operation of the menstrual function. It will drive out every trace of leucorrhœa, and will so strengthen the ligaments that falling of the womb will be an impossibility. Don't you think it would pay you to try a medicine with such a record as that? You can get a $1 bottle of Wine of Cardui at any drug store and use it in the privacy of your home.

Townsend, Ga., May 18, 1899.

I have been in bad health with falling of the womb, weak back, nervousness and heart palpitation. At monthly periods I would be in bed suffering great pain.
I have been taking Wine of Cardui and Thedford's
P. Draught, and they have brought me wonderful relief. I have no pain, and not stop work at the monthly period.

POLICE BUSINESS CONTINUES GOOD

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS WRIGHT

Got Into Trouble For Using Profane Language and It Cost Them $6.60 Each.

ONE MAN WILL CALL TONIGHT

Business at police court continues good and every day Mayor Davidson has a new batch of offenders before him and they all get their just deserts.

Charles Mack was very much intoxicated when Officers Dawson and Morris happened his way. The officers assisted Charles to take a jaunt down to the place where all drunks finally wind up. When he faced the mayor he was given a lecture on the evils of intemperance, and after putting up security he was permitted to go. He will call again this evening and his case will be finally disposed of.

Thomas Wright and Lizzie Wright, who reside in Jethro, evidently have not read the commandments, or if they have, they have failed to pay attention to them. The profanity that came from their lips was awful. Officer Morris heard it and not liking to hear such language he made complaint to the mayor. Thomas and Lizzie called on his honor last night and they were each assessed $2 and costs, amounting in all to $13 20. They gave him $5 on account and were permitted to go after putting up security for the balance.

The street force is still at work and the members of the gang are well satisfied, as they get plenty to eat and don't have to work too hard. They say it is a change from their usual way of living, and there is not a resident in the city that will dispute their word.

Great Welcome In Bryan's Home City.

BIG PARADE, CHEERING PEOPLE.

The Governor Then Addressed a Meeting—At Aurora, In Answer to an Auditor, He Said Chairman Jones Was Head of Cotton Bale Trust.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 3.—Governor Roosevelt was accorded a magnificent demonstration by the citizens of Lincoln. Nothing equal to it has yet been seen during the progress of the governor's journey through the west. Along the line of march, from the station to Capital House square, the streets, windows and balconies were filled with cheering people. In many streets the crowds were so dense as to impede the passage of the carriages and the mounted escort.

Arriving at Capital House square Governor Roosevelt was conducted to a reviewing stand, before which the long procession passed in review, occupying more than an hour. There were many unique and amusing features in the parade.

First came about 40 young ladies of the city in uniforms of blue, occupying a place in the column of march. At long intervals came two other troops of ladies in uniform belonging to the Ida McKinley club. Some of the banners displayed were amusing and significant. The Union Veteran Republican league, containing some hundred and fifty members, was carrying a horseshoe for luck. They had a banner bearing this inscription:

"We helped Abraham Lincoln in 1860. We are helping McKinley now."

After the procession had passed in review Governor Roosevelt was conducted to a speakers' stand, where he spoke for three-quarters of an hour, going over the same ground in his remarks as he has traveled over before upon the issues of expansion, militarism, imperialism and patriotism. His remarks were punctuated by frequent cheers. At the conclusion of his speech, on his way from the stand to his carriage, he was fairly mobbed by a wildly eager crowd who wished to shake his hand or to get a word or look of recognition. He reached his carriage somewhat battered in appearance, but in fine spirits on account of the fervor of the reception. The train then pulled out for Plattsmouth, where an evening meeting was held.

There was a large crowd at Grand Island to meet the arrival of the Roosevelt train and here the governor left the train and spoke from a stand a dozen blocks away in the center of the city. He prefaced his remarks by calling attention to the great prosperity of all classes now existing and asked his hearers to compare it with the economic conditions of four years ago and act accordingly. He appealed also to the young men who were casting their votes for the first or second time to cast them for the party which has always been working for the honor of the flag and the greatness of the nation.

While delivering his speech at Aurora, Governor Roosevelt was interrupted by a man who cried out: "What about the trusts?"

Governor Roosevelt—What trust do you mean?

Inquirer—Oh, the ice trust, beef trust, the oil trust and all of them.

Governor Roosevelt—Shall I tell you about Chairman Jones' cotton bale trust or Richard Croker's ice trust?

"He puts the question in good faith and I will try to answer it in good faith. The trusts at present have to be dealt with each state by itself. A denunciation of trusts is of no value when not connected with action. Democratic denunciation of trusts

amount to nothing when Mr. Jones, chairman of the Democratic National committee is at the head of the cotton bale trust, and when Mr. Croker, the leader of the New York Democracy, has a large ownership in another. These facts convict those of insincerity and that is all there is about it.

"There was a chance to give the national government power to deal with trusts a while ago, when the Republican party in congress submitted a resolution for an amendment to the constitution in June, giving the national government power to deal with trusts.

"That measure was supported by every Republican but two in congress, and voted against by every Democrat but four in congress. That is what about the trusts and that is not talk, my friend, but deeds."

At York, an open air meeting was held of large proportions, where Governor Roosevelt made a 15-minute speech. He was followed in a short address by Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston.

CLAIMS OF REPUBLICANS.

National Committee Says There Are 266 Votes Sure For McKinley.

New York, Oct. 3.—In a statement issued from Republican national headquarters through Committeeman Manley, the national committee claims 266 votes certain in the electoral college for Mr. McKinley, 112 for Bryan and 54 were put down as in doubt. The states conceded to Bryan are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, the Carolinas, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

In the doubtful column is put Colorado, Idaho, Kentucky, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, Nebraska and Utah. Everything else is put down for McKinley, but Indiana, which with its 15 votes is admitted to be in doubt.

When shown this Republican claim Mr. Richardson, for the Democrats, characterized it as only "so much boasting." He added that the Democrats also had a poll, which was very different from the Republican one, but that it would not be made public.

INSANE GLASSWORKER'S DEED.

He Killed His Wife and Then Committed Suicide.

Pittsburg, Oct. 3.—Ferdinand Probst shot his wife and then himself, using a double-barreled shotgun loaded for weasel. The woman's jaw was blown away and she never moved after. To shoot himself Probst worked the trigger with his toe, the greater part of his head was blown away and he fell, a bloody heap, on the floor beside the bed on which his wife was lying. The couple's 3-year-old baby girl lay beside her mother in the bed and saw her father's deed. He was insane.

Akron Riot Indictments.

Akron, O., Oct. 3.—The special grand jury, which has been sitting for the last six weeks investigating the riot which took place in this city August 22, made a partial report to the court. This was for the purpose of excusing a juror, who was compelled to leave on business. A new juror was called and work was resumed with the prospect of making a final report soon. The findings thus far were not announced by the court, but it is said that 66 indictments have already been found.

Harrison to Speak or Write Letter.

New York, Oct. 3.—Senator Scott called on ex-President Harrison and said afterward that Mr. Harrison will remain here 10 or 11 days and will be able to speak, probably within that time. If he should not be able to deliver and address, said Senator Scott, he will write a letter giving his views and showing his position, and the letter will favor McKinley.

BRYAN ON GOLD STANDARD.

"If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing, or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."

This language was used by Hon. William Jennings Bryan in a speech at Knoxville, Tenn., on September 16, 1896.

ENFORCE THE LAW.

Palmists, clairvoyants, fortune tellers and the like would better get out of Ohio at once. The law hits 'em hard.

PROFANITY.

Mayor Davidson evidently means business in his order against the use of profanity in public places. Hit 'em hard, mayor, and all good and true citizens will stand by you, and you will have the approval of your conscience.

LECTURE COURSE.

We congratulate the High School committee on the coming lecture course in their selection of first-class material. Our lecture lovers and admirers of first-class entertainments, along the educational line, will have a rich treat this season.

POSTAGE STAMPS.

The adhesive material of some of Uncle Sam's two-cent stamps don't fill the bill, by any manner of means, it being necessary, on many occasions, to use paste or mucilage in order to cause them to adhere to the envelope. Uncle Samuel should shake somebody up, for turning out inferior material or workmanship.

RUFFIANISM.

Ruffianism and disorder seems to be the play made by the backers of William Jennings Bryan in the silver mining regions. It looks very much as if Billy J. Bryan is indeed the chief agent of the silver trust, and as if the main question of the nation is the advancement and enrichment of the silver mine owners, at the expense of all other men and all other industries. The attacks on Teddy Roosevelt will make votes by the thousand for McKinley and the gallant Rough Rider.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

There are newspapers and newspapers. There be newspapers which rejoice over the announcement of much good being accomplished by and through the medium of churches and Sunday schools. And there be newspapers which seem to take fiendish delight in the publication of items which detract from the good accomplished by Sunday schools and churches, and take ghoulish pleasure in spreading the news that some minister of the gospel or some Sunday school teacher has fallen from grace and gone wrong. Which of these papers does a clean and good citizen desire to take into his family circle?

CIGARETTES.

Those who supply them to the youngsters are a little too mean to class with humanity. Some of the lawbreakers are liable to get into serious trouble. One little fellow has made a confession to a prominent educator as to the identity of the fellow who has been supplying the school boys with the nasty things. Give the fellow the limit. And interest yourselves in making the punishment still heavier. Let us have a law to punish the youngsters found smoking the noxious things, or a law forbidding their manufacture or sale. In the destruction of childhood and youth, they are second only to the infamous saloon and liquor traffic. Wipe both evils out.

TEACHERS.

Certain lady teachers have been hauling the proprietor of the News Review over the coals and literally flaying him alive, because he published the complaint of a mother respecting her little boy being refused a drink by one of the teachers at the Sixth street school. The lady teachers in question have demanded, on three separate occasions, that the proprietor should give the name of the lady complainant, and on three separate occasions has this demand been refused. Will the lady complainant be so kind as to come to our rescue by calling on Prof. Rayman and stating her case in full? She will confer a great favor on the writer, and at the same time possibly discover that the case in question is not so serious as she at first supposed. The principal of the Sixth street school cannot believe that any teacher in her domain would be unnecessarily cruel to a little child.

HIT 'EM GOOD.

The way of the transgressor is hard. The court reports from Lisbon today demonstrate the fact that awakened justice is holding the reins of government and administering law on the principle of the greater good to the greater mass. Public sentiment has become fully aroused, and public sentiment is a powerful lever. Evil has become rampant and bold, absolutely shameless in its actions, and it became an actual necessity to call the perpetrators of evil and illegal practices to a stern account. All good and true and law-abiding citizens will say amen, and will back up the prosecuting attorney and the court in the good work being done.

THE WHOLE TICKET.

Don't be satisfied with simply the election of McKinley and Roosevelt. We want the whole ticket, both houses, everything in sight. We want no disturbing elements or influences in Washington city. We want a full and free swing, as we desire to show the workingmen and toilers of the nation how to run a model government, on the principal of the greatest good to the greatest mass. The Republican party has accomplished much along this line during the past four years; but there is still much ground to cover; and to cover it fully, we want that there shall be no hindrances in our way. Vote the whole ticket, and wrestle with your neighbor along the same line of thought. We want every lover of prosperity to vote the Republican ticket. Don't let wind or weather, snow, storm or sleet keep you away from the polls. The grand old Buckeye state should roll up the greatest Republican majority ever polled in her history.

People of East End Make Play Things Out of Revolvers And Annoy Residents.

There is a community in the upper end of town where the inhabitants amuse themselves by shooting fire arms at all hours of the night. Some of the people come from Kentucky, and according to the opinion of several parties, they are accustomed to carrying and shooting fire arms merely to hear the report.

Last night several shots were heard, and when Officer Hamilton repaired to the scene no one in that neighborhood had even heard it.

A number of the residents have been informed of the penalty attached to offenses of this character, and it will likely go hard with them if they are caught.

The D., L. & W. Company Falls Into Line.

THE D. & H. COMPANY REFUSED.

So Did the Pennsylvania Coal Company. D., L. & W. Say Increase Will Apply to Employees, Returning to Work Tomorrow—Other Companies Offer Increase.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 3.—The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company posted the following notices:

"This company makes the following announcement to its mine employees: It will adjust its rate of wages so as to pay its mine employees on and after October 1 a net increase of 10 per cent on the wages heretofore received, and will take up as heretofore with its mine employees any grievances which they may have.

"Approved: "E. E. Loomis, Supt.

"E. J. Evans, District Supt."

"The 10 per cent increase in wages will apply to all employees of this colliery returning to work Thursday, October 4, 1900. Contract miners' wages will be increased by reducing the price of powder to $1.50 per keg. This reduction to be applied in adjusting the miners increase of 10 per cent. Other employees will receive a straight increase of 10 per cent in their wages.

"Approved: "E. E. Loomis, Supt.

"E. J. Evans, District Supt."

The Hillside Coal and Iron company and the Temple Iron company also posted notices offering a 10 per cent increase. These three companies operate 36 collieries. There are 98 collieries in the county. The Delaware and Hudson company, with 21 collieries and the Pennsylvania Coal company, with 27 collieries, joined with the individual operators in refusing to post notices.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company announces that the offer to take up any grievances its men may have is not to be construed to mean that it will enter a general arbitration. Each operator will deal with his own employees separately.

It was asserted there was not the slightest probability of the miners of this region going back to work until they get the word from the headquarters of the United Mine Workers.

BIG PARADE OF MINERS.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 3.—The parade and massmeeting of the striking miners, held in this city today, was the greatest labor demonstration ever held in Northeastern Pennsylvania. The weather was favorable to a large turnout, the sun shining brightly all day; it was more like a day in June than October.

The parade was headed by President Mitchell and the officers of the national executive board. It required an hour and 20 minutes to pass a given point. It is estimated that there were 15,000 men and boys in line. The boys constituted the working force in the breakers. They were only a small part of the procession. The great bulk of the paraders were made up of stalwart men. The music was furnished by about 40 bands of music and drum corps.

There were many banners of various designs carried by the men. Among the most unique were thus:

"We want our dinner pails filled with substantial food, not coal barons' taffy."

"We are fighting a cause that is just and right."

"Stand by President Mitchell and the union."

"Our union must be recognized."

"We will no longer be slaves."

"220 pounds for a ton."

"We want two weeks pay."

The breaker boys carried banners which read:

"We need schooling, but must work."

"Save us from the whims of the sheriff and deputies."

"Down with oppression. We will stand by Mitchell."

The parade passed over the principal streets of the city and thousands of people lined the sidewalks. Here and there an enthusiastic admirer of President Mitchell would break through the lines and insist on shaking hands with him. Some of the features of the big procession was a brass band from Nanticoke, the members of which were dressed in overalls. They played excellent music. The Pittston locals had a float with four men representing coal barons. They were dressed accordingly and were busy drinking champagne. Directly following was a float with dust-begrimed miners dining on bread and water. A stretcher was carried containing a dummy, representing a miner who had just lost his life in the mines while in the discharge of his duty.

When President Mitchell reviewed the great army of marchers on the river common he seemed to be a very proud man. He was generously applauded by the marchers. The superintendents of the coal companies and their clerks viewed the parade from their office buildings. One coal man said it was a very creditable demonstration. One thing is certain, the big showing made was a revelation to many who had no idea that the miners were so thoroughly organized.

After the parade passed President Mitchell and his colleagues were driven to West Side park, where the big mass meeting was held. For several hours a crowd had been gathering there, and it was estimated that nearly 20,000 persons were massed in front of the stand when the labor president began to speak. The reception he received from the vast crowd was a most enthusiastic one. T. D. Nichols, president of District No. 1 (Lackawanna and Wyoming region), was the chairman of the meeting. After George Purcell, of Indiana, member of the national executive board, and the Rev. P. J. Dunn, of Wilkesbarre, had made short addresses, Mr. Mitchell was introduced.

The national president was followed by Fred Diller, of Ohio; Benjamin James, of Pennsylvania, both members of the executive board, and "Mother" Mary Jones. After the meeting President Mitchell was driven through cheering crowds to his hotel.

President Mitchell's address, as far as outlining any future move on the part of the labor leaders is concerned, was a disappointment. He intimated very strongly the night before that he would define the position of the union in the 10 per cent concession. His failure to do so has caused the impression to go out that he is still undecided what should be done and that he is probably waiting for local unions to take some kind of action first. On the other hand there are some people who are in close touch with the situation who believe Mr. Mitchell knows exactly what he is doing. They argue that his telling the men that they can settle the 10 per cent increase question by holding a convention was a broad hint to the local leaders to carry out the suggestion.

Mr. Mitchell had no news touching upon negotiations for settlement to give out. He said there was absolutely no change in the situation.

MUST RECOGNIZE UNION.

Wyoming Strikers Declare It Is Useless For Operators to Merely Increase Wages.

Wilkesbarre, Oct. 3.—The coal operators of Wyoming who posted notices at their collieries notifying their employees of a 10 per cent increase in wages, had no information from their men as to whether the offer would be accepted or not. They thought the strikers were too busy with the parade and massmeeting to take any action. The operators are in no hurry and will wait the pleasure of the strikers. The miners, however, have about made up their minds that they will not consider the offer. The increase, they say, is a mere trifle and not worthy of consideration.

The fact that the operators have made what appears to be a studied effort to ignore the miners' union is what galls the strikers most. They say it is useless to talk of a settlement unless the presidents of the coal companies make up their minds to recognize the union. One of the officers of the United Mine Workers' council of this district said:

"I do not see how an agreement can be reached so long as the union is left out of the negotiations. The operators might as well understand now as later on that the union has come to stay and that it will insist on its demands being granted."

TINPLATE SCALE SETTLED.

Reported That Employees Got Advance of 10 Per Cent.

New York, Oct. 3.—The conference between the officers of the American Tin Plate company and the delegates representing the Tin Workers' association of America, was continued. The wage question was settled, though on what basis was not officially announced, but it was reported that the employees had been granted an advance of 10 per cent.

After the conference President Powell, of the employees' association, said that though a full settlement had not been reached, he was almost assured that a satisfactory termination of the conference would result today. Vice President Arms, of the company, held the same opinion.

CREMATED BY A MOB.

Negro Burned at the Stake in Alabama.

VICTIM'S HUSBAND FIRED FAGOTS.

Wetumpka, Ala., Oct. 3.—Winfield Townsend, alias Floyd, a negro, was burned at the stake in the little town of Eclectic, about 15 miles from this place. The crime, with which he was charged, was an attempted assault upon Mrs. Lonnie Harrington, whose husband set fire to the brands which reduced Townsend's body to ashes. The negro, a nephew of the negro Floyd who was hung in the Wetumpka jail week before last for attempted assault, attempted to outrage Mrs. Harrington. Mr. Harrington was engaged at a cotton gin in Eclectic and lives about one mile out of town. The negro came to the house and told Mrs. Harrington that her husband had sent him to get 20 cents from her. She told him she had no change. Then the negro left, but returned in about 10 minutes. The woman's screams were heard by Bob Nichols, another negro, who was passing along the road at the time. He ran to the house in time to see the negro escape. As soon as Mrs. Harrington was brought back to consciousness Nichols gave the alarm.

The news spread rapidly. All the stores in Eclectic were closed, all the gins and saw mills shut down; the people left their wagons in the road and their plows in the field, and gathered for a pursuit of the negro. The crowd divided, some scouring the woods near the scene of the crime, and others went to the penitentiary for bloodhounds. The dogs were not brought to the scene until nearly dark. They were taken to where the negro's tracks disappeared and an exciting chase ensued. The dogs stopped finally at a tree in front of Odion's store, on the outskirts of the town. The crowd coming up soon discovered the negro sitting on a limb. He was brought down at once and taken to the scene of his crime. There he was confronted by his victim, who positively identified him. Word was sent to the other searching parties that the negro had been found and later there was a crowd of several hundred in the little village. The negro was then taken to the edge of the village and surrounded by the mob he shivered with fear. The preparations for death were quickly made. A rope was flung over the limb of a big oak and a number stood ready to lend a hand at the rope.

Then a halt was called and the manner of death discussed by the mob. To decide the matter a vote was taken and the balloting showed a majority of the crowd to favor death at the stake.

The stake was prepared and the negro was bound to it with chains. Pine knots were piled about him and the flames were fired by the husband of the negro's victim. As they leaped to the wretches flesh his wild cries upon God for mercy and help could be heard for miles. The crowd looked on, deaf to his cries, and in about an hour the negro was reduced to ashes.

Townsend, before being bound, confessed the crime and said he was also implicated with Alexander Floyd, who was hung a couple of weeks ago for an attempted assault on Miss Kate Pearson, in the attempt at that time. He said he and Floyd had planned for other crimes of like character, but that Floyd being hung put a stop to them.

PENSION QUESTION.

Facts Regarding the Records of the Two Parties.

REPUBLICANS THE FIRM FRIENDS

Cleveland's Malicious Policy on the Matter—What the Present Administration Has Done in This Regard.

"The organized pension grabbers have a great weight in politics, and they never fail to use it. Just let an executive officer try to execute the laws and hold down the pension frauds and a howl goes up from that class, many of whom are members of that treasury-fed, treasury-fattened organization called the Grand Army of the Republic. No sooner do the Grand Army posts have a meeting than these same pension attorneys set up a howl against the offending officer and go to work to have him removed. Such has been the case with the present commissioner of pensions. So permeating and far-reaching is this baneful influence that Democrats in the north, in many instances, are as bad or worse than Republicans. It seems that in that section of the country where the pension crop exceeds almost any other source of money supply, Republicans, Democrats and Populists fall over each other in their efforts to execute the will and wish of this army of pensioners."

These are the words spoken in congress February 14, 1900, by Thetus Willrette Sims, of Linden, Tennessee, representing the Eighth District of that Democratic stronghold. They boil down into a paragraph the real, inner feeling of the Democracy of the dominant and controlling section of the Democratic party upon the question of pensions for the Union soldiers who whipped them. The intense hostility and ugly temper manifested by this Tennessee Democratic congressman, nevertheless touch a certain vein of truth. Singularly enough, the one speech in the house at the late session that fully warranted all that Mr. Sims said and insinuated about "these same pension attorneys" that "set up a howl," came from a Democrat, Hon. William Sulzer, of New York, the Tammany pet who dreamed that he was to be on the ticket for vice president with Bryan. Thus he is no insignificant figure in Democratic circles. Sulzer's speech, dated June 5, 1900, is just as much an insult to every decent, honest soldier, or widow or orphan of a soldier, as anything Sims said. Sims talks right out about the "organized pension grabbers," but recognizes that they are not so much soldiers as those who use the name of the soldiers for their own profit, while Sulzer's entire speech, so far as it relates to pensions, proceeds absolutely upon the assumption that every soldier is indeed a "pension grabber," and has no motive in any claim he may make upon the government for his services except to get the most that he can, honestly or dishonestly. More than eight of the broad pages of the Congressional Record, in its very finest type, are filled by Sulzer with what he calls "some data regarding pension matters," that proves to be, not his words in the last, but simply a rehash of pension attorney attacks upon the pension bureau for months before the speech was made. These attacks, kept up incessantly in a newspaper operating nominally for the benefit of the old soldiers and having some circulation among them for that reason, was used by Sulzer as about all he has to say on the pension question. The meanest of all the mean things in these systematic attacks that betray in every line their writer's wrath because the pension bureau has not bent the knee to his demands, have been gathered by the Democratic committees into leaflets and sown broadcast among the veteran soldiers of Ohio upon the degrading supposition that these brave and true men can be seduced from the party that has alone legislated in their behalf, and betrayed into the support of the party that has alone worked against them in congress and at the White house. Sulzer seems to suppose that no motive

but a mercenary one exists among the American soldiers, and "any old lie" that touches the pocket-nerve, appears to him sufficient for circulation to deceive our veterans.

A few days after Sulzer spoke, Hon. Charles Dick, of Ohio, gave the absolute facts from the records as to the immense services to the soldiers by the Republicans in congress, and in the executive departments, throughout the entire period since the war, and took up item by item every accusation made by Sulzer's pension agency organ. Twenty-six of these false and unjust charges are clearly stated and specifically answered. Every soldier should read this speech of General Dick, and mark the contrast between its fair, strong and courteous replies, and the slanderous accusations. It is impossible in our brief space to touch upon these individually, but the fourteenth count is a fair illustration. Sulzer attacks Commissioner Evans for rejecting claimants over 62 years of age, as if there were some law for their particular benefit. But there is no such statute and, as General Dick says, "it is manifestly absurd to charge the commissioner with the violation of a law which has no existence, and this charge is a fair specimen of the recklessness which was obtained in formulating the different counts in this indictment."

What do the soldiers say to this Sulzer insinuation that no motive but a mercenary one inspires them in their pension applications, and that they care not what laws are broken or what injustice is done, so long as they get a grab from the treasury, right or wrong? Is it not such things as Sulzer says that alone give occasion for such gratuitous and unmitigated insults as Sims spoke? Both are Democrats, both think alike at heart about the pension matter, and their party thinks with them. The proof of it was in the Democratic conduct when it had the power under President Cleveland, and in the fact that six out of every ten Democrats in congress in the votes upon the 14 great pension measures since the war, have voted against them. Nothing will so surely hasten the break-down of the entire pension system to the positive harm of all the thousands justly entitled to government aid, as such speeches as Sulzer's; for every Democratic vote since the Democratic circulation of the Sulzer speeches ratifies what he has said, and hastens the day when may be realized these words with which his brother Democrat, Sims, of Tennessee, equally a Bryan supporter, closed his speech:

"Mr. Chairman if the southern members of this house, who are not entirely dependent on the pensioners' vote for a seat in this house, do not take hold of this evil and by determined and long-continued effort root it out, no mortal can predict to what ruinous lengths it will go. Speaking for myself, I most solemnly declare that as long as I am honored with a seat in this body I shall never cease to make the best efforts of which, in my weakness, I am capable to root out and utterly destroy this monster of evil, and I call on all my colleagues of the south who have the courage of their convictions to stand by me in this fight."

If there were no trusts until McKinley came in, how was it that the Democratic congress 12 years ago (1888) found so many of them, according to the report of its committee on the subject? At that time, the President and House were Democratic and the Senate short of it by only two votes.

Bryan for President brings a Bryan congress, and starts the silver smas at 16 to 1. What will the railroads then about their interest due in gold, with two dollars of interest to be earned for every dollar of interest to be paid? Will that fact affect and cut the wages of railroad workers?

Not a word yet from Bryan or his Chairman Jones, about the latter's cotton bale trust. There is not even an intimation of the surrender of a penny of the profits that have made Jones a millionaire in the years.

It is the humble man that advances. He recognizes his imperfections and strives to improve. His progress is the result of his knowledge of self. The vain, conceited, arrogant man stands still.

IMPERIALISM

NOW DEFINED BY PERRY BELMONT FOR DEMOCRATS.

It Is a Judicial Question, Not One to Be Settled by the People at the Ballot-Box—Hence It Is Not Properly an Issue in the Pending Campaign.

Ever since the present campaign began, there has been a difficulty in understanding exactly what Mr. Bryan means by the term "imperialism." The first definition which has been attempted is that of Hon. Perry Belmont of New York, in a letter addressed to Hon. John T. McGraw, who is the Democratic national committeeman of West Virginia. Mr. Belmont says:

"The Republican idea, the imperialistic idea, is that all the millions of people in our territories and islands can, in time of peace, be governed by congress according to its fancy, unrestrained by the constitution and the judicial powers. * * * Such imperialism was by the Kansas City convention made the supreme issue."

Here we have it. Imperialism, in the Democratic mind, is not the government of the Philippines, but the government of the Philippines "unrestrained by the constitution." In reply to this it is but necessary to mention three pertinent facts:

First—The Republican policy is in accordance with every legislative act applied to newly acquired territory since the United States began its tremendous march of expansion.

Second—The United States supreme court backs this up with exhaustive and overwhelming authority.

Third—The issue of imperialism, as defined by Mr. Belmont above, is again before the national courts.

If the Republican policy is unconstitutional, therefore, it will be so decided, and reversed. If the courts shall hold it to be correct, then the Democrats will be constitutionally bound to abandon their present position, drop their imperialistic argument, and obey the court.

Hence, it follows that imperialism is a bogus issue, because it is not one that can be settled by the people at the ballot box. It is a question for the judicial branch of the government, not for the legislative or the executive. The election of Mr. Bryan would do nothing whatever to influence the decision that the courts will give. Imperialism is, therefore, no more an issue before the people than is any other judicial question now pending in the supreme court of the United States.

But let us remark that Bryanism, while it is not before the supreme court, is a menace and a threat against the supreme court and the powers conferred upon it by the constitution of the United States.

OUR GOOD TITLE.

How Would Bryan Vitate Our Rights to the Philippines?

What is there back of Bryan's repeated remark that the United States has not a good title to the Philippines? Does it mean that "if President" he will have his attorney general give an opinion that will take the American American troops away and surrender the islands? was not this flag-furling foreshadowed weeks ago by Cotton Baler Jones, chairman of the Democratic National committee, when he was asked whether Mr. Bryan, in the event of his election, would order American troops to leave the Philippines? His answer was: "We sent the troops there in ships. I guess we can bring them away in ships. We had no more right to send soldiers there than we have to send them to fight against any government in Europe. Congress has never authorized the prosecution of war against the Filipinos, and without action of Congress what right has anybody to carry on such a war?"

INSULT TO SOLDIERS.

Are our American soldiers mere mercenaries, as Bryan insinuates that they are? Whether in the regulars or volunteers, the boys in blue of today are just as patriotic as their fathers of 30 years ago, although not so numerous by 1 in 20. At Milwaukee, Bryan, talking to the Germans, as he supposed (but the Germans were too patriotic to listen to him), got off the gag he has repeated so often that the Republican party "would take their sons away from them for service in the Philippines" and appease them "by leaving a gold dollar in their pocket." If this is not a double insult to the soldiers and their fathers alike, then the English language has lost its meaning.

OHIO EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Said a fellow to Charley Stacy the other day: "Say, Charley, how can I manage to get a man to cut corn fodder for me?" Quick as a wink, Charley said, "Vote for Bryan, and there will be lots of fellows looking for just that kind of a job." Mr. Stacy is a Republican, while his questioner is a 16 to 1 Democrat.—Bowling Green Tribune.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Surles have returned from Anderson, Ind., and will resume housekeeping on Robinson street. Mr. Surles had been employed by a manufacturing concern of that city, and when leaving the owners said to him: "Remember, if McKinley is elected we will want you back here to build two more kilns."—East Liverpool News-Review.

If there is an individual wide awake in the political world today, that individual is Marcus A. Hanna. He is a hustler from Hustlerville, and he is determined that it will not be his fault if there are any stay-at-home Republican voters in the land in the month of November next.—East Liverpool News-Review.

Come along, Mr. Bryan, and see Youngstown in the full enjoyment of Republican prosperity. — Youngstown Telegram.

"What was Jones after when he left the Republican party? Office. What was he after last year? Office. What is he after now that he has flopped again? Office, of course. Look out and see if the event does not verify my prediction."—An Observer of the Jones' Movements.

BRYAN'S SILLINESS.

Out of his own mouth in his set speech at St. Louis on the trust question, Bryan stands convicted of caring more for state rights than to control the trusts. He characterized the Republican constitutional amendment as "vicious," and "intended to deprive the states of the power they now possess, rather than to confer upon congress new authority." If Mr. Bryan is ignorant of it, Democrats who are good lawyers, are fully aware that without an amendment to the constitution, congress can not prevent the shipment to a citizen of one state of goods bought by him in another state from a trust or monopoly. Thus Bryan denounces the disease, but refuses the only remedy that can accomplish anything practical.

"The American market will be cheap enough then, with no wages to buy with," says a commercial traveler in a note to the New York Sun, asking "What will the American mechanic do when Bryan puts all that corporations make on the free list, and opens the free trade door to foreign trusts?"

"A great reservoir of wealth" the United States has become, "from which the most powerful states of the old world do not hesitate to seek to replenish their resources." This is the way the great financial journal in London looks at the recent American loans to foreign countries that Bryan sneers at. Which is the better business authority?

FOR CONTRACTION.

Democratic Newspapers Flout Bryan's "Imperialism" Cry.

Hence Bryan Stands For Contraction, and a Relinquishment of Part of the National Area—Symposium of Democratic Opinions on This Point.

There is such a flocking from Bryan, or such sharp criticisms upon him and his course by his supporters, the southern Democratic press being particularly notable in this respect by its caustic comments upon its candidate, that it is well to group some of these things together.

The Democracy of the Galveston News, for instance, is not to be impugned, yet that principal Texas organ observes that "one thing is altogether certain, and that is that we have, in the language of Colonel Culberson, 'done already expanded,' and the fact is known to every thinking man in the country." The only possible conclusion left is that Bryan's plan means contraction.

An Iowa Independent Democratic paper, the Des Moines Leader, thinks that "the money question is more important than the colonial one."

A great Massachusetts paper of the same description, the Boston Herald, Independent Democratic, finds "a distrust of Bryan which overbalances any distrust of McKinley. The one is immediate, the other comparatively ultimate. Bryan as president threatens the welfare of the country at once, not only in the wild ideas he has as regards the currency, but in the incompetency or worse of the men he has about him, and on whom we must rely for his administration if he comes into power. McKinley disclaims altogether imperialism in its more objectionable form; Bryan does not disclaim his intention to fix free silver upon the country, and to put its active supporters into charge of the government. On striking a balance here we think the conviction of all conservative men, whether they be Republicans, Democrats or Independents, must be of the certain and summary risk of Bryan as president, and that this will be the deciding factor in their minds when weighed against the dangers more in the future urged against electing McKinley."

E. C. Benedict, a lifelong New York Democrat, and closest friend of ex-President Cleveland, in refusing to contribute to the Democratic campaign fund, declares that the Bryanites "promulgated a platform of doctrines almost wholly at variance" with "unquestioned Democratic principles." He "would as soon think of contributing to a lot of Chinese who have captured our Christian churches and call themselves regular Christians."

Former Democratic United States Senator M. C. Butler of South Carolina described the present prosperity of the south, and says that many persons there "see in protection especially a very beneficial thing to everybody concerned." He thinks that "the Democratic party made a mistake when it raised the cry of anti-imperialism," and he "don't believe that there is any such a thing. As for the southern people, I don't see how any of them, especially those in the cotton business, can see anything not beneficial to them in the policy of expansion. I think Mr. McKinley has made a most excellent president. He is thoroughly conscientious, intensely patriotic and has the best interests of the country, north and south, at heart."

In a letter to the New York Post (Independent), William B. Hornblower, the New York Democratic lawyer nominated for the United States supreme court by Cleveland, pronounces for McKinley. He says that "the most important issue is whether our domestic affairs are to be thrown into confusion and exposed to disaster." He holds that the colonial question can wait and is "by no means certain that Mr. Bryan would be a safe person to whom to entrust the imperialistic question." At any rate it "must wait until we have settled the question of the present, and that

THE POWERS IN ACCORD.

Beginning to Take Kindly to Attitude of United States, as to China.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Favorable news has reached Washington from the European chancelleries, indicating that a complete agreement as to China is within sight. The agreement will be on the basis of the propositions laid down by Secretary Hay in his note of July 3, and the subsequent notes treating of that subject. The accord of Russia with the United States is more complete than was anticipated at first, and the reports show that all of the European nations probably are placing themselves in position to take advantage of the opening made by the United States, and soon will be ready to begin negotiations for a settlement with the Chinese government. The Russians already have given notices of such purposes, and while the text of the French note on this subject, referred to in press dispatches, had not reached the state department, the officials were satisfied that this is correctly reported, and that France, like Russia, is ready to negotiate at once.

As for Germany, either the position of that government has been misunderstood or it has sustained a change of mind. Possibly the former is the case, but, however that may be, it is quite certain from the advices which have reached Washington today that the German government, upon careful inspection of the plans for a settlement projected by the United States, finds therein nothing inconsistent with the German aspirations. Therefore it may be expected that Germany too will be prepared soon to join in this common movement toward a settlement. It may be stated that altogether the prospects of an adjustment of the Chinese difficulty without resort to formal war are very much brighter than they were one week ago.

A cablegram from Mr. Conger recited the departure of the Russian minister and suite from Peking. There was an authentication by Minister Wu of the Chinese edict, providing for the punishment of Tuan and the guilty princes.

MUST PUNISH INSTIGATORS.

Reply of the German Emperor to a Note From the Emperor of China.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—The German emperor received a message from the Chinese emperor, stating that libations of grief would be performed for the murdered Baron von Ketteler.

The German emperor told him that besides the baron a number of Christian bishops and missionaries had been murdered and that only the punishment of the high dignitaries, guilty of instigating the crimes, would satisfy Germany and the Christian nations.

PRINCE ORDERED FOREIGNERS KILLED

Defense of Man Accused of Killing Baron Von Ketteler.

Berlin, Oct. 3.—Official advices from Peking, dated Sept. 23, asserted that a further examination of the Chinese non-commissioned officer accused of the murder of Baron von Ketteler, resulted in this statement:

"On June 21 I and my people received orders from a prince to shoot foreigners wherever we came across them."

The accused, it appears, denied that the order was to shoot a minister or the German minister, and he declared himself unable to say which prince gave the order.

Made In 1896, It Stands Good This Year.

HE DECLARED SO AT MILWAUKEE

Congressman Dockery, of Missouri, Promises Free Silver in Case of Bryan's Election—Voters Will Do Well to Look Facts in the Face.

William J. Bryan, in his speech at Knoxville, Tenn., on Sept. 16, 1896, said: "If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing, or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."

If the country believes Bryan, those who dread silver supremacy on the day after his election—should that calamity occur—will take him at his word, and begin to unload. The experience of disaster to the country after the election of 1892 will repeat itself. This will not be politics, but business; and the old rule of "every man save himself" will be in full operation, regardless of partisanship.

Mr. Bryan is not so open in his silver utterances this year as he was in 1896; but in his speech at Milwaukee on Saturday, Sept. 8, he declared as follows: "The position of the Democratic party on the money question is known. It has undergone no change. The same Democratic platform that declared in favor of the restoration of bimetalism also declared that, in this campaign, the restoration of the principles of self-government found in the Declaration of Independence was the paramount issue of the hour."

The same Democratic platform, too, declared twice for 16 to 1 silver, while the silver Republican and Populist platforms, upon which Bryan is just as much a candidate for President today, make the silver standard "the immediate issue," and thus having precedence of the simply paramount, Bryan's Milwaukee declaration—thus reaffirms his declaration at Knoxville, Tenn., that "the gold standard will not be maintained longer than I am able to get rid of it." Thus every Bryan vote is a vote to get rid of the present prosperity conditions.

The program of carrying the country for free silver by means of the bugaboo of imperialism is well understood by the Democratic leaders. Representative Dockery, of Missouri, Democratic leader in the House, and candidate for governor of his state, said in a speech at Lebanon, Mo., a few days ago, that the first thing that Bryan will do after he is inaugurated President will be to write an invitation over the door of every mint in the United States to silver and gold to come and be coined free, without limit, at the ratio of 16 to 1. That's for the South and West. In the East these things are kept concealed.

DEPOSITORS AND DEPOSITS.

In 1894, the various banks of the United States, national, state and private, and savings and loan and trust companies, had 5,545,867 depositors. Last year at the date of the latest combined reports, this number was increased by nearly 40 per cent, to 7,655,414 depositors. The increase in deposits from Democratic freed trade times in 1894 to Republican prosperity in 1899 was even greater, being nearly 60 per cent gain, advancing from $2,374,585,406 to $4,608,096,005. Even more significant, if for nothing, is the increase in individual deposits from an average of $520 for each person to $602 for each person. Bryanism would undo all of that.
